T. R. IS APPLAUDED IN COURT; EXCUSED FROM THE STAND

Witness Seven and a Half Days in Trial of Barnes' Libel Suit Against Him—Says He Accepted Vice Presidential Nomination to Gratify McKinley.

WHITMAN LETTER ON "CORRUPTION" READ

Colonel Explains Tennessee Coal & Iron Action by Telling of Danger in Panic, "With Situation Trembling on a Hair."

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 28.—Theodore Roosevelt was excused from the stand today after having been a witness for seven and a half days in the trial of William Barnes' $50,000 suit against his alleged libel.

In a letter produced by counsel for the Colonel during the redirect examination of the former President, Gov. Charles S. Whitman, then District Attorney of New York, told Charles H. Duell of New York that "the time is ripe" for all progressive Republicans and members of the Progressive party to "rid the State of the party control which is responsible for corrupt conditions."

The letter was written in 1914 and the District Attorney wrote that "the men and the policies responsible" for the corrupt conditions were not confined to any one party. Barnes' name was not mentioned in the letter, but the Colonel in reply to questions said he understood that the reference was to him.

When Col. Roosevelt entered the courtroom today the spectators applauded him and attendants had some difficulty in restoring order. The Colonel was smiling as he took his seat in the witness chair and awaited the first question, which was about a letter in which Messrs. Bidwell and Stranahan were mentioned.

"I remember that letter," said the Colonel. "Senator Platt wanted Mr. Bidwell appointed Collector of the Port of New York. It seemed inadvisable, however, so I appointed Mr. Stranahan, a State Senator."

Seth Low and Platt. In regard to the election of Seth Low as Mayor of New York City and a meeting he arranged between Low and Senator Platt, the Colonel said: "The organization had helped elect Mr. I. W. I. wanted Mr. Low to take the same attitude I did toward the organization. Therefore, I wrote to Mr. Platt about a meeting between the two. I didn't want the organization to feel it was being slighted. But I wanted Mr. Low always to understand that he was to do what he thought best. I was President then."

"Why did you write about Mr. Platt's man and someone else's man?" asked Bowers. "Why that meant nothing derogatory to the men. It was simply to identify them."

"How did you finally happen to be nominated for Vice President in 1907?" An objection was sustained.

"Did President McKinley send you a communication on that subject?" "Yes."

"Did you accept after receiving the message?" Another objection was sustained. Later he said: "I accepted so as to gratify President McKinley."

Canalside Contributions. "Do you remember hearing that any of the men named by Mr. Ives contributed to your campaign fund in 1907?" "Until after I left the presidency I never heard the names of those men as having been contributors. I heard most of them the first time when they were read here."

"I knew some people had contributed, but I didn't know how much. I knew of Henry Frick, George W. Perkins, Clifford Pinckney, the widow of Senator Hanna, and George von L. Meyer, who also remember a widow who contributed a dollar."

"What did you do in regard to the New Haven Railroad and the Harvester company?" "Action was taken against the New Haven. An investigation was made of the Harvester company and it was reported to me that it was all right."

The Colonel then said he remembered an investigation had been made of the Dupont Powder Co.

"Now about the Northern Pacific Railroad?" An objection was sustained.

"Was action during your administration brought against the Standard Oil Co.?" The Court upheld another objection.

Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. "Was any other action taken against any other corporation in which Mr. Morgan or other gentlemen whose names appeared as contributors were interested during your administration?" An objection was sustained.

"Now for the Tennessee Coal and Iron and the United States Steel Corporation." "When the merger took place I understood the Tennessee was weak that the Steel Corporation didn't consider it a dangerous competitor. The corporation controlled about 80 per cent of the output. The Tennessee had 13 per cent of the total output. Subsequently the output of the Steel Corporation shrank to 14 per cent."

"The action occurred during the height of the panic of 1907. The price

CAPTAIN SUED FOR $20,000 SAYS ROWE ARREST WAS JUST

Johnson Asserts He Should Have Been Fired Had He Not Acted on Maid's Story of Alleged Attack on Her in Home of William Marion Reedy.

TELLS OF A FORMER COMPLAINANT BY GIRL

Maid Gives Version of Occurrence in Reedy Home—Describes Another Time When She Says She Snubbed Rowe.

Capt. James Johnson of the Laclede avenue police station, who was sued for $20,000 for causing the arrest of Henry Rowe, a lawyer, 3738 Delmar boulevard, accused of a serious offense by a 16-year-old girl, announced that his defense probably would be that the police were justified in making the arrest, but the information in their possession.

Rowe is accused of an attack upon Lella Willoughby, a maid in the home of William Marion Reedy, editor of the Mirror, at 3836 West Pine boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Reedy, upon returning from a dinner party late Tuesday night, found the girl bound, gagged and unconscious in a bathroom, as has been reported. She is at the city hospital for an examination into her condition.

When confronted with Rowe at the hospital last night she said that he was the masked assailant who attacked her in the Reedy home.

"Any police official who would not have arrested Rowe when in possession of the facts we had," Capt. Johnson said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, in outlining his probable defense, "would have been negligent of his duty and should be fired from the department. We acted in this case as we would in any other case, without regard to the standing of any person concerned."

Rowe's suit was prepared and filed by his father, Thomas J. Rowe, who was a member of the Board of Freeholders that drafted the new city charter. The suit asks $10,000 actual and $10,000 punitive damages on the plea of false arrest, as well as costs of the arrest as the Court Clerk's office was opened.

Capt. Johnson told in detail of the police proceedings. When men at his station learned of the attack at the Reedy home, patrolmen were sent to investigate. The maid told them how she was awakened from a sleep to hear someone prowling about the lower part of the house, how she had gone to a rear stairway and saw a man with a handkerchief over his face and how she had faintly.

Had Been Told to Hide Jewels. Before departing that night, she told the police, Mrs. Reedy had given her jewelry to the girl and told her to hide it. She said she hid it in a medicine chest in the bathroom.

The girl, according to Capt. Johnson, was questioned twice by a sergeant in the presence of Mrs. Reedy. Both times she said she didn't know her assailant. Mrs. Reedy, the Captain said, told the sergeant she suspected a certain man (other than Rowe), whom she had seen around the place and whom she had suspected of admiring Miss Willoughby.

Later, Johnson declared, when Sgt. McCormack questioned the girl alone, she told him she had recognized the man as Henry Rowe, whom she knew because of his frequent visits to the Reedy home and who had, she said, several times annoyed her seriously.

When asked why she had not told this in the first place, Miss Willoughby declared, according to Capt. Johnson: "I have been cautioned not to mention Mr. Rowe's name."

Capt. Johnson then directed Sgt. Schroeder to take the girl to the police station for further questioning. He did this, he said, because he believed she would talk more freely there than she would at the Reedy home. At the station, he said, the maid told that Rowe had once behaved improperly toward her in Mrs. Reedy's presence; that once he had choked and threatened her until she called the police.

Captain Tells of Former Case. The Captain said he recognized some of her story as true from his personal knowledge. That was that he knew Rowe had been a friend of the Reedy's for a long time, that Rowe was a friend of Mrs. Reedy before her marriage, that he frequently visited the editor's home and that patrolmen had been sent there some weeks ago on this girl's complaint that Rowe had threatened and choked her. The case was dropped at that time.

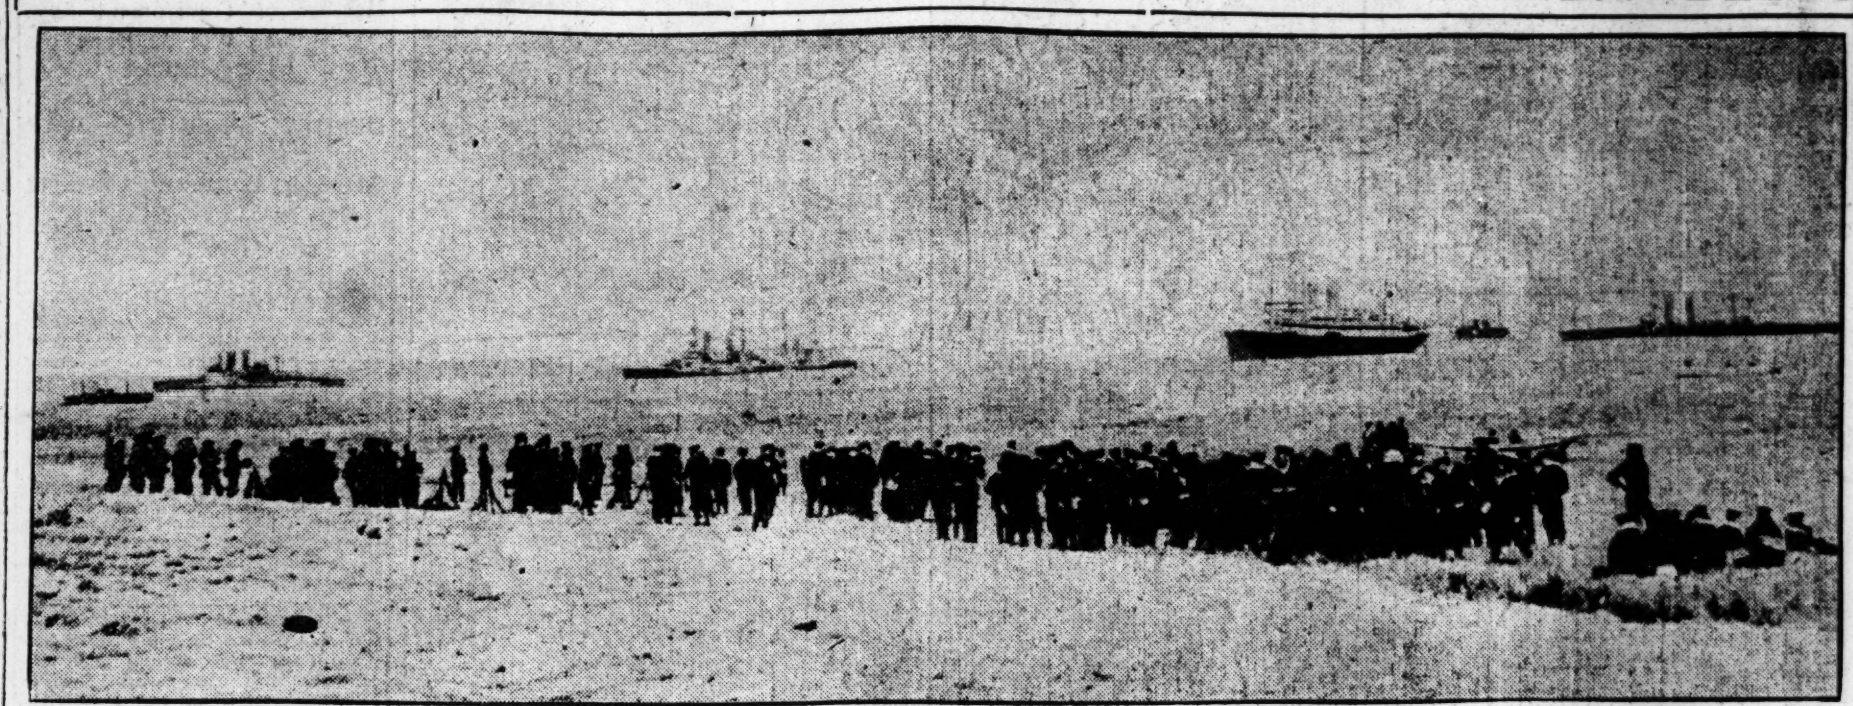

The Captain declared, when Mrs. Reedy assured the police the girl was mistaken.

The men who went to the house at that time were Patrolmen Lake and Riley. They told the Captain that Miss Willoughby accused Rowe of stuffing a rag in her mouth.

Rowe was arrested about 7:30 last night as he was walking along Grand avenue with his brother, Thomas. Capt. Johnson said he was at the Laclede avenue station when the prisoner was brought in and that the father, Thomas,

ALLIED TROOPS AND MARINES LANDING AT THE DARDANELLES

THIS photograph, made March 24, shows some of the war vessels of the big allied fleet in the Dardanelles guarding the landing of British bluejackets for a combined land and sea attack on the Turkish forts. It is believed that since then the landing of troops and marines has proceeded regularly and in satisfactory force, for official announcement was made in London Monday that the long-expected general attack on Dardanelles forts had begun. The number of men participating is variously estimated from 100,000 to 200,000. In the foreground of the photograph is a detachment of bluejackets who have just left their boats while out some distance from the shore is the transport that is discharging its human cargo. All around are circling the protecting warships.

MAN PUT IN TWO WEEKS ON ARSON 'PLANT' IN HOTEL

Former Choreman at Hippodrome Hostelry Tells of "Electrician" Who Came Daily

A man who said he was an electrician worked daily for two weeks in the Hippodrome Hotel, Sixth and Walnut streets, installing the elaborate arson plant which was discovered after the extinguishing of a fire in one of the hotel rooms early yesterday morning.

The police today obtained a full account of this man's work at the hotel, and definite knowledge of his identity, from Harry Patton, lately employed as a choreman about the place.

Harry Sadek of 4039 A De Tonty street, proprietor of the hotel, who was arrested after the fire, has been released on bond; Thomas Haynes of 3330 A Olive street, clerk in the hotel on the night of the fire, and Henrietta Smiley, negro maid, are being held as a precaution, but the police have found no evidence connecting them with the arson plot.

Finger Prints Are Photographed. Finger prints found on the jars of oil, which were set about the hotel, in places where oil-soaked strips of gauze and paper were expected to ignite them, have been photographed by the police and will be compared with the finger prints of the man suspected of laying the arson plant, if he is caught. Haynes' finger prints and those of the negroes do not resemble those which the police photographed.

Patton, who worked as choreman at the hotel for two weeks, quitting ten days ago, was arrested today as a witness, and he readily told of what he saw in his daily work. He said the hotel had no guests while he was there, and that a man would come at 8 o'clock every morning and look over the books, and would then put on overalls and cap and go upstairs. Patton said the man told him, if anyone called, not to go upstairs after him, but to ring the bell.

Every morning, Patton said, he would find a pile of plaster in a tobacco cation or some other receptacle on the back porch, and would carry it into the basement. He said the man told him that the plaster was removed in doing electrical work. Yesterday's investigation showed that it was removed in order to hang oil-soaked gauze between the two rows of laths within the wall.

Says Sadek Brought in Tubs. A few days before Patton left, he said, Sadek brought in three new tubs, and at another time, he said, Sadek brought two tubs of gauze. Patton said he took one to Sadek's garage on De Tonty street. Sadek telling him that he intended to use it as an underlayer for wall paper. Patton did not know what was done with the other tub. He said Sadek was in and out of the hotel at different times during the day.

Sadek also brought in five square cans, he said, and told Patton they contained lubricating oil for his machine. Patton believed the man worked on the premises at night, as well as by day, and that he continued his work until the day before the fire. Thursday morning, he said, he chanced to pass the hotel at 8 o'clock and saw the man leaving, with a straw suit case in his hand.

Investigation has shown that insurance policies amounting to $11,000 on the hotel furnishings, held in six companies, were renewed by Sadek April 11, the date of their expiration. In the last few days persons who applied for rooms in the hotel have been turned away, and the police have learned the names of persons who were directed by those in charge at the Hippodrome to other hotels.

MEYER BROS. CO. OVERDRAFTS TO BE INVESTIGATED

Creditors at Secret Meeting Name Committee to Inquire Into Acts by Officials.

At a secret meeting today of creditors of the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., in hands of a receiver, a committee was appointed, one of the men present told a Post-Dispatch reporter, to investigate overdrafts of $151,230.83 by officers and directors of the firm. The committee was named after an emotional breakdown by Charles W. Wall, treasurer of the drug company, who broke into tears and then gave way to sobs as he read a typewritten report of the concern's financial difficulties.

Elaborate precautions were taken to prevent outsiders from getting into the meeting, which was at the American Annex, from 10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Two men stood at the door to question all comers as to their right to attend and, it is said, the creditors had a mutual understanding not to divulge what transpired.

Frightened Cow Dashes Into Building in East St. Louis

Girl Stenographer, Cigar Man and Politicians.

A cow, being driven down Main street in East St. Louis this morning took fright at a fire engine and dashed through the swinging doors into the rotunda of the Arcade Building, opposite the city hall.

Once inside the building, her fright seemed to increase, and she ran wildly up and down the long corridors, bellowing loudly. A public stenographer, who has her office in the rotunda, deserted her post and fled to the second floor, while a telegraph operator and a cigar merchant also sought places of safety. A group of politicians were put to flight.

The cow finally escaped through the Collinsville avenue exit. She pushed open the two sets of swinging doors with her horns, without breaking a glass. Walter Bader of 1106 Baugh avenue, employee of a commission house, was custodian of the cow.

WIDOW OF LAWYER IN THAW CASE A CAMPBELL WITNESS

Mrs. Marie O'Reilly Testifies That Campbell Was So Devoted to Baby, He "Acted Like Crazy Man."

Mrs. Marie Meakin O'Reilly of New York, widow of Daniel O'Reilly, a lawyer who figured prominently in the Thaw murder trial, was the first witness today in the James Campbell will contest in Judge Kinsey's court. She went on the stand shortly before noon, after the morning had been devoted to reading depositions.

Mrs. O'Reilly is the daughter of Mrs. Ellen V. Meakin, who was on the stand yesterday. She gave testimony covering much the same ground as the testimony of her mother, disclosing a close intimacy with the Campbell family. She was richly dressed in black, with only a faint, fluffy tinge of white about the collar.

She told of meeting Mrs. and Mrs. James Campbell in Hot Springs, Ark., in September, 1902, and of accompanying them to St. Louis after about three weeks. She, her father, mother and sister were guests at the Campbell home at Grand and Lucas avenues for two days.

With Mrs. Campbell in New York. In October of the same year the Campbells were in New York. Mrs. O'Reilly said, and Mrs. Campbell spent an entire day with her at the Metropolitan Hotel. She saw the Campbell again in November or December at the Grand Hotel in New York, and on March 15, 1903, the day before the date given as the time of the birth of Mrs. Lois Campbell Burkham, whose parents, Mrs. O'Reilly testified, Mrs. Campbell spent her and that she remained all night of March 15 in the Campbell's suite. She slept on a cot in the parlor, she said.

The next day she was away from home all day, and when she reached home her father told her a message had been received of the illness of Mrs. Campbell. Her mother went to the hotel to see Mrs. Campbell, and upon her return home at midnight, told of the birth of a baby.

Mrs. O'Reilly said it was apparent on March 16 that Mrs. Campbell was to become a mother, and that when she saw Mrs. Campbell a few days afterward she was very sick, and looked "just like a woman who had just become a mother."

Intimacy With the Campbells. Morton Jourdan, counsel for the Campbell family, in order to show that Mrs. O'Reilly and the Campbells were intimate, asked her if there was any reason why she frequently remained all night as the guest of the Campbells when she visited them at the hotel.

"Why," she replied, "Mr. Campbell was very fond of me, and Mrs. Campbell liked me also. When I remained at night Mr. Campbell always had a cot placed for me in the parlor."

Mrs. O'Reilly had with her a diary containing many entries relating to visits with the Campbells, and two old school copy books, in which she had pasted many theater programs, on which she had marked those who had accompanied her to the theater. The names of the Campbells frequently occurred. When asked if the programs indicated all the theaters she had attended, she replied:

"Oh, no. I was very busy about that time."

Campbell "Crazy" About Child. Asked by Jourdan how Campbell acted toward the baby, she replied: "He acted like a crazy man. He was so delighted with her. He showed absolute devotion. And Mrs. Campbell wouldn't go outside the room without the baby."

Mrs. Campbell, the witness said, was Mrs. Shaw's mother's cousin. The witness called at the hotel in response to a letter from Mrs. Campbell, inviting her to come and see the new baby. She found Mrs. Campbell in bed. The baby was brought from an adjoining room. It appeared to be about 2 weeks old.

Campbell came in presently, accompanied by another man, and ordered wine, of which all partook. He seemed to be delighted with the child, the witness said.

Mrs. Shaw said that when she saw the baby at the Grand Hotel Mrs. Campbell remarked that it looked like her people. Attorney Otty testified that he saw Mrs. Campbell at the hotel, and that she seemed to be in a state of mind that she could not be trusted to give reliable testimony.

Mrs. Campbell said there was such a resemblance.

Baby Had No Hair. The eyes of the infant were blue-gray, the witness thought. Mrs. Campbell's were dark. She was asked what was the color of the infant's hair. She said she did not see any hair.

Otty handed her photographs of seven men. One was a photograph of Campbell. She picked out the one of Campbell and said it was a photograph of the man who ordered the wine.

Attorney Schurmacher wanted the seven photographs shown to the jury. Otty said he had returned them to the family album at his home, but would bring them down later if desired.

Mrs. Shaw visited Mrs. Campbell in 1901 at her summer home at Greenwich, Conn., and had luncheon with her. There had been no other visits between them.

Mrs. Campbell's First Husband. The witness was asked on cross-examination what was the occupation of Mrs. Campbell's first husband, Taylor. She said she understood he was a druggist and physician. She had been told that Mrs. Taylor, after the death of Taylor, was a stenographer.

John J. Meehan, formerly a clerk at the Grand Union Hotel, was recalled by the defense and questioned about the location of a sidewalk elevator, the noise from which, according to Mrs. Meakin, in her testimony yesterday, hastened the departure of Mrs. Campbell from the Grand Union Hotel a few months after March 17, 1903.

Meehan was leaving the stand. Attorney Otty told him he would be expected to remain in court until the end of the trial, so that he could be recalled for cross-examination if desired. Meehan protested that he had important business in New York. Otty said he could not help that. The attorneys for the defense had notified his first witness to remain in court and he would expect all of the witnesses for the defense to remain in court also.

Tells of Seeing Baby. Testimony which many persons considered the strongest yet produced as tending to establish that Mrs. Burkham is the daughter of James and Florence Campbell, was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Meakin.

Mrs. Meakin, who is 80 years old and the widow of a New York police captain, testified she arrived at the Grand Union Hotel on March 17, 1902, very shortly after the birth of a child, and that she saw the child, wrapped in a blanket, held in her arms and placed it in the arms of Campbell.

ENGLAND PROPOSES A TAX TO SOLVE DRINK QUESTION

Lloyd-George Reveals Scheme and Says Strong Action Is Necessary.

By Associated Press. LONDON, April 28.—Chancellor of the Exchequer David Lloyd-George made known in the House of Commons this afternoon his plan to deal with the question of the too great consumption of alcoholic liquors in England.

He proposed a very heavy surtax on both spirits and beers containing more than 7 per cent of proof spirits, and the duty on spirits is to be doubled.

In areas producing materials of war or in which transport work is performed and in some camp areas, the Government is to have complete control of the saloon drink.

Difficulties Encountered. The Chancellor in his opening sentence indicated that difficulties had been met with, as he said: "After weeks of trying to find a solution of the question, I am prepared to take a pledge never to politically touch drink again."

The Chancellor said nothing but real necessity had driven the Government to submit proposals on this subject, but it was above all important that the country be able to utilize every available resource to increase the supplies of munitions of war.

Victory was largely a question of material, he said, and when the time came to drive the Germans out of Flanders and France, the expenditure of ammunition and other war material must be on a greater scale and of a more sustained character than anything yet witnessed in any war. The nation must subordinate everything to the present struggle and the Government was entitled to ask everyone to clear all obstacles out of the way of winning a struggle which means the life or death of the empire.

Necessary to Insure Victory. The Chancellor laid particular emphasis on these remarks for the benefit of those who might object to his present proposals.

"These are necessary," he declared, "to insure victory; not ultimate victory, but victory soon without unnecessary loss of life."

Dealing with excessive drinking among towns workers, Lloyd-George remarked: "Everybody agreed on the existence of this evil until the remedies were foreshadowed. The facts show that the evil is so serious that nothing but strong action will enable the country to cope with it."

Lloyd-George said also that the slackness in some British shipyards was causing serious anxiety to those in command of the fleet.

The Archbishop of York, speaking at the York convention yesterday, expressed the opinion that if a great scheme of temperance reform were introduced during the war, there would be danger of reaction when the prohibition was removed. Then the Archbishop said, there would be "real and regrettable intemperance."

In the lower house of the convocation the Dean of Manchester introduced a resolution against total prohibition. The resolution, which was adopted, follows: "Resolved, That this house, while wishing to support all such measures as may, in the opinion of the Government, be necessary for the strength and safety of the nation in time of war, would look with anxiety upon the total prohibition of the sale of alcoholic drinks."

ALLIES DRIVEN INTO SEA, A TRANSPORT SUNK, SAY TURKS

Constantinople War Office Announces Ottoman Troops Have Stormed Positions on Gallipoli Peninsula and Taken Prisoners.

British, However, Officially Declare Landing Force Has Established Itself and Is Advancing.

Gen. French Reports Germans Have Been Stopped in Flanders, Where Allies Continue to Attack.

By Associated Press. LONDON, April 28.—Although the Turks and the Germans maintain that the British on the west and the French on the east side of the Dardanelles are being crushed in their attempts to press forward, newspaper readers in London are being told that all official statements from Constantinople and Berlin bearing on the Dardanelles struggle are being not only censored, but framed with the special purpose of exerting favorable influence on Italy and other wavering neutrals.

A statement issued at Constantinople Tuesday, just received here, says: "Sigh Dera, to the west of Sedur Bahr, has been cleared of the enemy."

"The enemy, who landed near Kaba Tepeh, endeavored to maintain their positions under cover of their ships, but early in the morning our troops stormed these positions and forced the enemy back along the whole front, inflicting severe losses on them. Part of the enemy fled in the direction of the sea, and, taking to their boats, disappeared. Those unable to escape raised the white flag and surrendered en masse."

"A transport of the enemy was sunk off Avli-Burun (in the west coast of Gallipoli)."

"Later reports declare that hostile forces estimated at about 10,000 men have been driven into the sea on the coast at Kaba Tepeh."

The British War Office issued the following announcement last night: "In the face of continual opposition the allied troops have steadily advanced themselves across the end of the Gallipoli Peninsula from a point northeast of Eski Hissarlik to the mouth of a stream on the opposite side."

"They have also beaten off all attacks at Sari Bair and are steadily advancing. The Turks have made considerable preparation to hamper any landings. Wire entanglements under the sea as well as on land and deep pits with spikes at the bottom were among the obstacles overcome by the allies."

A dispatch received by the Exchange Telegraph Co. says the bombardment of the straits was resumed Tuesday and lasted 12 hours. It was directed particularly at the Kild Bahr forts.

Fierce fighting continued Wednesday on the shores of Suvla Bay on the western side of the Gallipoli Peninsula, 13 miles north of the southern extremity, resulted in the success of the allies, says the dispatch. The losses of the Turks were serious. One entire battalion was captured by the allies.

Germans Checked, Says Gen. French. "Our operations in conjunction with the French have definitely stopped the German attack," telegraphs Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces on the Continent. This, however, only brings to an end the first phase of the battle around Ypres, for the allies have yet to win back the ground which they lost in the great German sweep. For this purpose they are now engaged in counterattacks against the German lines. Only at one place, Stenstraete, have the Germans managed to keep their footing on the western bank of the canal, while to the north of Ypres the positions remain much as they were.

To hold these lines the Germans have brought up further reinforcements, and Belgium, behind them, has been denuded of troops. The town and villages in Belgium are being guarded by only a handful of sentries.

The statement from German headquarters says: "All attacks against the German positions on the west trian submarine of the French cruiser Leon Gambetta, with the loss of nearly 50 men.

An official communication issued at Vienna says: "Submarine No. 5, commanded by Lieut. George Ritter von Trapp, torpedoed and sank the French cruiser in the Ionian Sea."

The bodies of 16 of the men who lost their lives when the Leon Gambetta was torpedoed were buried with full naval honors at Santa Maria Leuca, Italy, Wednesday afternoon. The funeral was arranged by the officers of the Italian torpedo boat destroyers. Residents of the neighborhood joined the Italian sailors in attending the services at the cemetery.

From information gathered from various survivors at Brindisi, Italy, it is possible to construct the story of the disaster as follows:

The Leon Gambetta started company with the French cruiser Jules Ferry Monday night, with a view to co-operating with other French ships in an attempt to block the Austrian fleet if it should seek to leave the Adriatic. This was not an unusual maneuver, as the Leon Gambetta for months had been going up and down the coast from Cape Santa Maria Leuca to Brindisi, Bari or across to Corfu and Valona.

The sea was perfectly calm and the moon bright. The Leon Gambetta showed no lights and acted with customary precautions, but there was no suspicion of danger.

At midnight the warship was about 20 miles from Cape Santa Maria Leuca. The lookout could see distinctly the lights on the Italian coast. At six nothing appeared on the horizon.

Commander Died at Post. Suddenly a fearful explosion shook the cruiser fore and aft. Officers and men remained calm and the survivors say, their first thought was not for their own safety, but rather to detect and attack their assailant.

They scanned the sea for a periscope, but saw none.

As the cruiser was listing rapidly, the commander ordered that signals for help be sent and that the boats be lowered. It proved difficult to lower the boats, owing to the position of the ship in the water. Some of the men leaped overboard in the bare hope of saving themselves. Others were washed off the decks. The commander, although urged to abandon his ship, refused to do so.

Berlin Hears 50,000 Soldiers Were Sent Against Dardanelles. BERLIN, by wireless to Sayville, April 29.—Advices from Constantinople as given out here today by the Overseas News Agency are that the forces which the French and British attempted to land at the Dardanelles numbered about 50,000 men. Landing operations were undertaken at three points on the European and one on the Asiatic side at the straits.

Austria Stops Traffic to Rush Troops to Italian Frontline. VERONA, Italy, April 29.—Railway service on the Austrian side of the frontier virtually has been suspended for ordinary purposes. All lines are being used to carry troops to the Italian frontier.

BEETLES EAT PADS OUT OF FURNITURE IN WHITE HOUSE. Heat Brings Them Out of Luxurious Quarters After Chair Seats Get Harder and Harder.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Half eating beetles, known to carpet makers as "carpet beetles" and scientists as "dermestids," beetles have been feasting on the padding in White House furniture all winter. As the result of their hibernation in luxurious quarters, most of the padding in the red room of the White House has been eaten out.

Servants at the White House have noticed during the last few months that many of the seats in chairs and divans have been shrinking. Gradually they became harder and harder and less comfortable.

The heat of the last few days apparently became too great for the beetles, who have lived inside the cushions and who have fattened at the expense of the padding. An investigation was started today with the result that whole generations of little brown speckled beetles were uncovered. A few specimens were sent to the Bureau of Entomology for inspection.

Cabinet makers have a theory that this particular beetle is frequently carried into houses in tobacco.

CHILDREN PLAY NAKED IN SNOW; NEW TUBERCULOSIS TREATMENT. Buffalo Physician Describes Use of Sun's Rays, Substituted for the Surgical Method.

RUFFALO, N. Y., April 29.—Dr. Joshua H. Fryer, who has today received many inquiries from physicians concerning the first experiments made in America of the Rollier sun treatment as a substitute for surgery in cases of tuberculosis of bone and glands.

Describing the treatment for children at a banquet of the medical society of the State of New York, last night, Dr. Fryer said:

"The child becomes a barbarian once more. He goes virtually naked. The winter some of them are permitted games such as snowshoeing, tobogganing and skiing. One day in February they played unclad for an hour in the snow. It was a bright sunny day. This freedom is only allowed after months of exposure and considerable acclimation and gradual toughening."

LARGEST BOND ISSUE EVER MADE IN AMERICA IS SOLD. New York Central's Stockholders Have Subscribed for New $100,000,000 Securities.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Financial and business men were gratified today by the announcement that the sale of what was said to be the largest issue of corporate securities ever placed in the United States had been consummated yesterday.

This was made known when J. P. Morgan & Co. as syndicate managers, stated that substantially all of the $100,000,000 of New York Central 30-year 6 per cent convertible bonds offered to stockholders had been subscribed for. The proceeds of these bonds will be used to fund an equal amount of the company's now unfunded debt and in the acquisition of property.

T. R. Says Platt Backed Down on Vice Presidency

Interests of every citizen was that some measure should be taken to stop the panic and restore confidence. In New York the situation was trembling on a hair as to whether every business would have to be shut up. One night I received notice that next day the New York City Board of Trade would meet to see me. I had received thousands of appeals to do something.

Counsel for the plaintiff objected at that point. The objection was overruled and the Colonel continued: "I notified the Attorney-General to meet the two gentlemen. He was in Baltimore and could not get there. I then invited Mr. Root. Mr. Gary said that Mr. Pierpont Morgan's company took immediate control of the Tennessee, the stock of the company would immediately be enhanced in value and that the result would be the end of the company. Mr. Gary told me the Morgan company did not want to buy the stock as they were trying to reduce their holdings."

"I object," said Ivin. "Well, do it openly," replied Bowers. "I am doing it as openly and as loudly as I can, with all the voice the Lord has left to me," said Ivin. "The Panic Was Stopped."

The Court said the Colonel had a right to explain the matter as there might have been some inference that there was something wrong in the consolidation of the two concerns. Col. Roosevelt continued: "I asked them to wait until the Attorney-General got over from Baltimore. They said the situation was acute and that if something wasn't done before the market opened the crash would come. I called in the newspaper men and told them of the action I had decided to take. The news was printed all over the country and the panic was stopped."

"Since you became Governor, how many letters have you written?" "I have written more than 100,000 letters. I have made over 40,000 appointments. I have signed 20,000 laws, carrying out the provisions of several laws. I have made thousands of speeches."

In reply to questions the Colonel then said: "I always consulted Mr. Platt about appointing Judges. I disagreed with him about the appointment of more than I did on anything else. Some of the Judges I appointed I knew personally. On others I had the recommendation of men I knew or bar associations. I appointed to the highest courts, I always knew the man or knew all about him."

"Invisible Government." "While you were Governor or President, was there any invisible government on your part?" "There was not one particle," replied the Colonel, with great emphasis.

"Do you remember reading at the time of the New York insurance investigation the testimony given by Senator Platt?" "Yes."

The Court would not allow the witness to answer a question on what the testimony was. "Mr. B." and "Mr. M." The Roosevelt attorneys then started to argue against the Court's ruling, but the Court held to its decision. "Did the article," Bowers went on, "contain statements you believed to be true?" The same objection was made and the same ruling was made. Bowers took an exception and the Colonel took a few notes on a piece of paper. Bowers then went on to ask the Colonel about a speech he made in which he said the interests of "Mr. B." and "Mr. M." (Barnes and Charles F. Murphy) were identical and that the former controlled Albany as the latter did New York.

Bayne committee report which have not been received in evidence." The Court upheld an objection by Ivin.

"You were asked on cross-examination questions about your residence when you were nominated for Governor. Did Mr. Root make a speech on the subject at the convention?" "Yes," replied the Colonel.

"And you were nominated?" "Yes, unanimously."

"Were you advised by Mr. Root at the time you were nominated that you were eligible?" An objection was sustained. "Did the attitude you took in your speeches after 1911 differ from the attitude concerning Mr. Barnes you took in 1910?" An objection was sustained.

"What facts came to your knowledge that led you to change your mind about Mr. Barnes?" There was another objection. The Court said: "Why, he has gone out of that. I believe. After a lengthy discussion Justice Andrews allowed the witness to proceed."

Bowers produced a letter. "Did you see this in the spring of 1914?" "Yes," Mr. Charles H. Duell gave it to me on my return from South America, May, 1914.

Justice Andrews read the letter, which was written by Charles S. Whitman, now Governor of New York, who was then District Attorney of New York County. Ivin objected on the ground that Whitman was not a party to this action and that the letter did not mention Barnes specifically. The Court ruled that if the Colonel said he relied on the letter and believed what Whitman wrote, a part of it would be received in evidence. The Colonel said he did so believe and the letter was read. It was written on the stationery of the District Attorney's office. The part read was as follows:

"After our last talk, I agree with you that the time is ripe for an alliance of the progressive Republicans and members of the National Progressive party, as well as of all good citizens sharing their opinions, to rid the State of the kind of party control which is mainly responsible for corrupt conditions which have been clearly shown in the various examinations and investigations which have been had during the last year. These conditions are not localized and the men and the policies responsible for them not confined to any one party."

"Did you understand that letter referred to the plaintiff here?" "I did," "Did you know, as the letter says, that investigations had been made of the Government?" An objection was sustained.

Thought Leaders Should Quit. A letter written by Harvey D. Hinman during the 1914 campaign was produced. In it he said he thought the time had come when the organization leaders should step down. That ended the re-direct examination of the witness. Counsel for Barnes immediately began the re-cross-examination and Col. Roosevelt was asked:

"Was the Mr. Root who presided at the Chicago convention the same one who in 1908 made a speech about your tax affidavit?" An objection was sustained.

Then Col. Roosevelt was asked: "Was that Elihu Root?" "It was," replied the Colonel.

Philip V. I. Schuyler of New York, an employee in the law department of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., was called. He said he had brought papers with him in answer to a subpoena. The papers were in a lawyer's brief case and contents were marked as an exhibit. A recess was then taken.

$20,000 Asked by Rowe for Arrest in Reedy Case

As J. Rowe, came in soon after. The elder Rowe, according to the Captain, asked if the prisoner was to be locked up and got the answer that his case would be handled as any other. After the prisoner had been returned from the hospital, where the girl identified him, he was taken back to the station. Later he was released on a common law bond.

Girl Tells Her Story. Miss Willoughby, very childish in appearance, gave her version of the occurrence to a Post-Dispatch reporter at the hotel this morning. She said she came from Edwardsville and had been in the Reedy home about three months. Her father, John Willoughby, she said, lives at 1838 O'Fallon street.

About a month after she had been in her new employment, she said, Rowe, came to the house. He seemed to be drinking and offered her 25 cents, the girl refused, and when she refused it he thrust it into her hand, but she threw it down. She said Mrs. Reedy rebuked him.

"He came back about a week later," Miss Willoughby said. "He pulled me on his lap and made me kiss him. He was very rude to Mrs. Reedy. He threw me on a sofa and choked me. I called the police and he threatened to kill me. Patrolmen Lake and Wiley came that day. When Mr. Rowe was at the house he drank beer and tried to get me to drink it and smoke cigarettes."

The girl then told how she was alone in the house night before last, she threw herself upon a bed, dressed for a nap. She was awakened by somebody downstairs. When she went to a rear stairway she saw a man with a handkerchief over his face ascending. She said she fainted, but that before she did so she recognized the man as Rowe. She declared she never knew what happened after she lost consciousness.

Reedy Believes Girl Is Mistaken. Mr. and Mrs. Reedy both told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that the maid took them at the time that she had never seen her assailant before. "Reedy believes she made a mistake in identifying Henry Rowe at the hospital. Young Rowe had been an occasional visitor at the Reedy home, they said, and the maid knew him."

Thomas J. Rowe said to a reporter that the maid in the Reedy home knew Henry Rowe well. "The first police report filed will show that she told the police that she did not know who the burglar was," he said.

"Henry was at home from 6 p. m. Tuesday until 8 a. m. Wednesday, with the exception of about 10 minutes, when he went to Grand avenue to get some cigars for me. He and I and the maid were alone at my home from 6 p. m. until 8:30 p. m. when my little granddaughter came home. He let her in at the door. A little later my son, David, came home, and Henry let him in. Then my daughter, Mrs. Oyer, came and Henry let her in. My daughter, Vivian, who has been out on an entertainment, came home at 11 p. m. That was about the time Henry went to bed. My son Tom, came home at midnight, and Henry was in bed asleep at that time."

"If the police had made the slightest investigation they could have ascertained that Henry Rowe was entirely innocent. When they took him to the hospital to see the girl he said to her: 'You know that it was not me.'"

"She said: 'It must have been you.' As I understand it, that is all the identification that was made."

"During the few minutes that Henry was absent from the house about 8 p. m. he went to a candy store to get three cigars for me. He stopped a few minutes in a saloon to see a friend, and there discovered that the clerk in the store had given him the wrong brand of cigars. He took them back and exchanged them, and came on home."

Reedy and the elder Rowe both called upon Chief of Police Young about the case, but at different times, this morning. Reedy asked permission to talk to the girl in the hospital, saying he felt responsible for her. The Chief sent a detective with him to be present at the interview. Reedy only inquired of the girl about her condition and whether he could be of any service to her.

Rowe told the Chief that he believed a case had been framed up against his son, and said he wanted an "investigation and a square deal." The Chief told him he would get both.

It is added that at the outset Great Britain was not disposed to make terms with Italy, but that Italy finally declined to consider joining the allies without first having reached a definite agreement with them concerning the nature and time of her co-operation, boundary readjustment after the war, permanent assistance from the allies. Italy is said to have received powerful assistance from French diplomacy in reaching the desired understanding on these points.

Prince von Buelow still is striving to induce Austria to make concessions and prevent Italy from becoming one of the belligerents.

ITALY INSISTS TRENT AND TRIESTE MUST BE RETURNED

Member of Government Says "Nothing Will Be Done" in Negotiations.

DEPUTY PREDICTS WAR.

Garibaldi Monument Unveiling May 5 Will Be Challenge, Says Veteran Legislator.

By Associated Press. BERLIN (by wireless to Sayville), April 29.—"According to reliable information, the Austro-Italian negotiations are proceeding satisfactorily," says the Overseas News Agency. "The most difficult point already has been overcome. The remaining ones are comparatively unimportant."

ROME, April 29.—Italy is continuing negotiations with the Powers arrayed on both sides in the war. The diplomatic interchanges with the allies are designed definitely to clear the atmosphere with regard to what Italy would obtain should she enter the war on the side of the Triple Entente. The conversation with the Central Empires seem to aim chiefly at convincing Vienna and Berlin that this country is determined to remain steadfast in her demands.

It is said to have been pointed out to Germany and Austria that the Italian program has not been framed by the present Cabinet, which might be changed with a change in government, but is based upon the unanimous and insistent demands of the country to which the Cabinet must submit or be removed from office. Foreign Minister Sonnino is credited with the ability to hammer home as forcefully as other men in the country Italy's determination to insist upon realizing her territorial aspirations. He is said to have resisted obstinately the diplomatic efforts of Prince von Buelow, the German Ambassador, while insisting that Trent and Trieste are Italy's "race and heritage" and must be returned to Italy.

Reported Agreement With Allies. From persons in close touch with the war situation, as it affects Italy, there was obtained today information which indicates that the Government has arrived at an understanding with Great Britain and France concerning the terms on which Italy will enter the war, if she eventually decides to do so. This information, while unofficial, is gathered from men who have made a close and careful study of the situation. The agreement is described as follows:

First, a provision for concerted military action. Italy will refrain from hostilities during the present stage of desultory trench warfare, which would enable Germany and Austria to concentrate a large part of their forces against her. She will then blow contemporaneously with a general effort by all the opponents of the central empires now in the field.

Second, an understanding concerning the territory to be awarded to Italy in the event of victory.

Third, a provision that after the war an alliance shall be formed between Italy and the present Triple Entente of Great Britain, France and Russia.

It is intimated that at the outset Great Britain was not disposed to make terms with Italy, but that Italy finally declined to consider joining the allies without first having reached a definite agreement with them concerning the nature and time of her co-operation, boundary readjustment after the war, permanent assistance from the allies. Italy is said to have received powerful assistance from French diplomacy in reaching the desired understanding on these points.

DETAILS OF NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN ROME AND VIENNA

Von Buelow Got Francis-Joseph to Make Offers by Threatening to Resign—Said to Be at End of Resources.

By Associated Press. ON THE ITALIAN FRONTIER, April 29.—There has been received here from a source in Rome that is thoroughly trustworthy a presentation of recent political developments. This disclosure, it is said, may now be made without detriment to the interests affected as the situation has reached such a point that no revelations can affect the policy settled upon by Italy. The information thus received is as follows:

When Prince von Buelow was accredited to Rome as German Ambassador he was charged with the definite task of bending every effort toward preventing Italy from entering the war.

At first the Ambassador received encouragement that his mission might result in success. He was too astute a diplomat, however, not perceiving that back of this complaisant attitude of Italy lay the pressing necessity of gaining time, for Italy was unprepared for war and needed an interval for preparations. The Ambassador accordingly sought to let Italy's policy by presenting concrete offers, which, even if satisfying her only in part, would cause a large section of the public to urge the Government to accept them and thus avoid the hardships of war.

Von Buelow Made Vague Offer. It was under these circumstances that the German Ambassador first proposed a settlement whereby Italy should receive the Austrian territory inhabited principally by Italians. This suggestion originally was vague and was not accompanied by evidence that Austria had acquiesced in it. Several weeks were required to give shape to this proposal which eventually was reduced to a plan for rectification of the Italian frontier in such a way as to make it less open to invasion.

Meantime Italy's military preparations were approaching completion. This enabled Foreign Minister Sonnino to assume a firmer attitude. He said clearly to any understanding which was contrary to the unanimous wishes of the people and Parliament, stating that there was a complete unification of sentiment. Furthermore, he said, the Cabinet was unwilling to continue negotiations initiated by Germany unless they should be participated in by Austria, with which any agreement necessarily must be concluded.

Austria at first declared that Emperor Francis-Joseph would never consent to the alienation of one inch of territory. Thus facing an impossible situation, Prince von Buelow threatened to abandon his post. Rather than force a rupture, Austria entered the negotiations and asked Italy to state her demands.

Wanted Service Kept Inward. It was at the middle of March when Italy made a response, repeating to Austria virtually what she had already said about territorial arrangements to Prince von Buelow. To this she added that she wished Austria to pledge herself, that whatever the result of the war, she would respect the territorial integrity of Serbia. The reason for this request was that Italy having taken her stand on the principle of political solidarity for the Italian race, could not consistently be a party, even indirectly, to any settlement of the war whereby the political entity of the Serbs would be threatened.

The Austrian view was taken that Italy's demands were excessive and unacceptable. She intimated that she considered it astonishing that Italy, having declared herself neutral when the war began, should interfere in any settlement between Austria and Serbia in addition to claiming for herself extensive territories possessed by Austria. The two points of view were so far apart that a rupture seemed inevitable, but Prince von Buelow succeeded in averting such a conclusion. The negotiations were taken up afresh. Signor Sonnino stated that the minimum of Italian demands included, in addition to the clause concerning Serbia, cession by Austria of the entire province of Trent and of Istria, with Trieste and Pola, and also a certain number of the Dalmatian islands.

At End of Resources. Austria came forward with counter suggestions, limiting the territory to be ceded to part of the province of Trent and certain other territory, excluding Pola and Trieste. The latter city, under this arrangement was to be transformed into a free town under Austrian suzerainty.

Italy definitely refused these proposals. It is asserted that Prince von Buelow came to the end of his resources. It is asserted that little has been accomplished since these last named proposals failed, and accordingly there is a general feeling that Italy will have recourse to arms.

GREENFIELD TO BE USED IN FURTHER FRAUD INQUIRIES

Charles L. Greenfield, self-admitted brains of the so-called "million-dollar swindle," who was released from the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., on a pardon granted by President Wilson yesterday, will be used by the Federal authorities in Philadelphia in the further investigation of bankruptcy frauds.

The immediate reason for the pardon was the condition of Greenfield's eyes. A report was sent to the President that, unless Greenfield was released so that he could be in the open air and have his eyes treated, he would be blind within 30 days.

A report was also received by the Pardon Board from the District Attorney Oliver saying Greenfield had been of great assistance to the Government in the investigation of the bankruptcy swindle and the prosecution of other men involved in the frauds, and that there was yet much work to be done, in which he could be of great assistance to the Government.

Greenfield was sent to the Leavenworth penitentiary in February, after his plea of guilty. He was used as the principal witness for the Government in the prosecution here of several other men connected with the scheme to defraud. Several of his confederates pleaded guilty, and the others who were tried were convicted upon his testimony. Greenfield was the organizer of the bankruptcy swindle, and one of the principal beneficiaries of its profits.

WOMAN MISSING AFTER SHOTS ARE HEARD IN HOME

Mrs. Enxicious, Who Killed Husband, Seen Leaving With Apparently Suffering Man.

The police are seeking Mrs. Jeanette Enxicious of 413 South Sixth street and a man who is believed to have been wounded in her home last night.

Neighbors heard two pistol shots in the Enxicious house about 9 p. m. and a few minutes later saw Mrs. Enxicious leave the house, supporting a man who appeared to be suffering.

The police did not learn of the shooting until 11 p. m., when someone telephoned police headquarters. Detectives then found the house deserted. They made a search but could find no weapon. The appearance of the rooms indicated a struggle had occurred.

Mrs. Enxicious shot and killed her husband, Harry Enxicious, an ex-convict, in his room at 306 South Broadway June 20 last. The police were unable to find her for several days afterward, when she was arrested at Twelfth and Market streets by a police sergeant who recognized her, although she was heavily veiled. She pleaded self-defense and was acquitted.

COLLEGE MAN SURRENDERS ON ABANDONMENT CHARGE

J. E. Conway Jr. of Chester, Pa. Says He Ran Away From Wife and Baby When Ordered to Support Them.

John E. Conway Jr. of Chester, Pa., who says he was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1911, surrendered to the police last night, asserting he had abandoned his wife and baby in Chester and wanted to go back to them. His wife, he said, was a graduate of Bryn Mawr and they were married two years ago today.

When asked why he had left his family Conway said because of "too much mother-in-law." They were happy, he said, until his wife's mother took a hand in their affairs. He left home last December and was arrested on a charge of abandonment. His father furnished bond for him, he said, when he was ordered to pay $4 a week to his wife. Rather than pay he ran away, later coming to St. Louis.

Conway said his father is proprietor of a hotel at Chester and his wife's father, Richard Fields, is vice president of the Autocar Co. of Philadelphia. His wife is with her parents.

PROF. MEYER TOLD HARVARD WILL NOT CURB FREE SPEECH

Prof. Lowell, Disclaiming Responsibility for Poem, "Gott Mit Uns," Answers Letter.

BELIEVES COURSE IS RIGHT

Points Out That Rule Applies Both to Those Who Favor and Those Opposing Germans.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 28.—President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University has made public his reply to Prof. Kuno Meyer of the University of Berlin, who previously had published in a Harvard student paper and elsewhere a poem entitled "Gott Mit Uns."

Dr. Lowell disclaims for the university authorities any responsibility for the verses, and says Harvard's policy of freedom of speech will be preserved. His letter follows:

"My Dear Prof. Meyer: Your letter has come, and I am grieved at the feeling of irritation against Harvard that it shows. The poem and prize to which you refer I had never heard of until your letter came. On inquiry I find that it was a prize offered by the students for a student poem, a matter with which the authorities of the University can hardly interfere."

"As you are aware, the freedom of speech of neither the professors nor the students in an American university is limited, nor are they themselves subject in their utterances to the direction of the authorities. On the contrary, we have endeavored to maintain the right of all members of the university to express themselves freely without censorship or supervision by the authorities of the university and have applied this rule impartially to those who favor Germany and those who favor the allies—to the former in the face of violent agitation for muzzle professors or alumni of the university and outsiders."

"This policy of freedom of speech we shall continue to pursue, for we believe it to be the only one which accords with the principle of academic freedom. I hope the time will come when you and your colleagues in Germany will recognize that this course is the only right one and that it is essential to the cause of universal scholarship and human progress that scholars should associate together again on terms of mutual respect and regard to national conflicts that have occurred."

"Very truly yours,
A. LAWRENCE LOWELL."

President Lowell Declines to Comment on Letter to Prof. Meyer.

President Lowell of Harvard, who is in St. Louis for the dedication of the Washington University Medical School, said to a reporter, who saw him this morning, that his published letter to Prof. Kuno Meyer spoke for itself. He declined to comment further on the Meyer incident, or on the Wiener-Muensterberg controversy of a few months ago, to which his letter alludes. He is a guest of George D. Markham of 4981 Berlin avenue.

FORD CAR REBATE CHECKS TO BE MAILED AFTER AUG. 1

Sale of 300,000 Cars Since Aug. 1, 1914 Will Be Completed in July, $40 to $60 to Each Owner.

DETROIT, Mich., April 28.—James Couzens, vice president and general manager of the Ford Motor Co., said today that unless something unforeseen arises, the company will have produced 300,000 cars by July 1 or July 15. This is a month sooner than was expected. Last summer the Ford company announced that if it sold 300,000 cars between Aug. 1, 1914, and Aug. 1, 1915, purchasers of these machines would receive a rebate of from $40 to $60.

"The company is now 60,000 cars behind in its order, we don't know just what the exact rebate will be," said Couzens. "We can't tell until we begin to figure up. Our offer was based on a profit-sharing plan. We expect to start the mailing out of the checks shortly after Aug. 1. The work will probably require the services of 30 clerks and it will take 30 days to complete the distribution."

"Each Ford purchaser since Aug. 1 has received a certificate and upon presenting same to us, by mail or otherwise, will receive a check for the rebate."

"The European war cut off our export business, but the demand for cars in this country has been so far beyond our expectations that we really have not felt the loss of foreign business."

ILLINOIS HOUSE TO INQUIRE INTO $2500 BRIBE CHARGES

Chicago Lawyer Expected to Deny He Said Offer Was Made for Votes on Structural Engineer's Bill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 28.—F. E. Davidson, a Chicago attorney, who yesterday was cited to appear before the bar of the House to explain charges of attempted bribery of members of the Legislature, which he was alleged to have made, expected to appear today and deny that he had made any such attempt.

Davidson employed two members of the Legislature—Representatives Pearson and Frankhouse—to act as his attorneys.

According to a letter written to each member of the House License Committee by Ernest McCullough, vice president of the Western Society of Engineers, Davidson on Monday stated before a meeting of the Board of Directors of that organization that two members of the License Committee had told him bribes of $2500 each had been offered to them to vote for the Curran bill, providing for the licensing of structural engineers.

SUNDAY OUTING TRIP

A Delightful Spot Only Twenty-Six Miles Away.

Everybody enjoys an outing trip occasionally, and the desire for such a trip is very strong in the beautiful days of Spring and early Summer. Where to go on Saturday afternoon or Sunday is a question that will soon be in the minds of nearly everybody.

The most ideal spot for such an outing is located only twenty-six miles south of St. Louis on the bluffs of the Mississippi River. This is the Dudley Farm at Bushburg, on the Iron Mountain. Excellent meals, bathing, boating—just the spot you have been looking for. Mrs. Dudley has issued a very attractive little booklet describing this delightful spot in detail. Call at the Iron Mountain Ticket Office, Seventh and Olive streets, for a copy.

COUNTRESS GETS LOST CROSS FROM AN 'APACHE' HERE

She Meets Parisian on St. Louis Street; Recovery Through Post-Dispatch Want Ad.

The Countess Annie de Montague, a guest at the Park Hotel, went alone yesterday afternoon to Twenty-second and Market streets, by appointment, to meet a Paris "Apache" and recovered a cross of the ancient order of St. John of Jerusalem, which she lost last Friday when on her way to a jeweler to have it repaired. The man refused to tell his name.

The Countess advertised for the cross in the Post-Dispatch lost and found column Sunday, the ad reading:

DECORATION—Pontifical: Maltese cross, fleur-de-lis. Countess de M., 6600 Washington.

Tuesday the Countess received a poorly written, poorly spelled letter, telling her to go alone to Twenty-second and Market streets at 3 p. m. with money to pay a reward and the cross would be returned to her. She told a Post-Dispatch reporter this morning that she did not fear making the trip alone because it was in the daytime, but that when she saw the man she was to meet, she wished she had a friend near by.

"He was a dangerous looking man," by his speech a Frenchman," she said, "and I was almost afraid. He said he had the cross and would give it to me on the payment of a reward."

"I was satisfied he already had been to the pawn shops with it, and that because it had no great intrinsic value had not been offered much. I refused to give him more than $5, and he finally took that and slunk away."

The Countess said she asked the man why he was not in France fighting for his country, and he replied that he had been a member of the Battalion d'Afrique, composed for the most part of Paris "Apaches" and other criminals.

The Countess said that to her the cross was beyond value. It was given to her, she said, by her late husband, among whose ancestors was a grand master of the Order of St. John.

The Countess was Miss Annie Kershaw of Charleston, S. C. The late Mrs. R. K. Walker of St. Louis was her sister.

OWES LANDLADY $27.50, SETS BED AFIRE AND RUNS AWAY

Woman Pursues Man, Who Tells Police That a Spark From His Pipe Started Blaze.

After several talks with his landlady about the $27.50 room rent which he owed, Joseph L. Scott, 55 years old, gave up his room at 3940 A Olive street at 10 o'clock this morning. Just before leaving, he poured gasoline on his bed and set fire to it. Then he sprinted down the street.

The landlady, Mrs. Jane Strong, pursued, and at Sarah and Olive streets a policeman seized Scott. He said he was cleaning his mattress with gasoline, and that a spark from his pipe caused it to take fire. This frightened him, he said, and he ran out. He did not explain his failure to turn in a fire alarm.

Mrs. Strong said she had told Scott he must vacate his room this morning, and that she saw him enter the house this morning, carrying a quart bottle. This contained gasoline. When she went to his room, she said, he dashed out, and she saw his bed on fire. Servants put out the blaze before he returned. Scott was held at the Newstead avenue police station on a charge of arson. He is an unemployed waiter.

TRIES HANDCUFFS ON FRIEND, FINDS HE LEFT KEY AT HOME

Illinois Sheriff and Barber Have to Call Upon Blacksmith for Relief.

Sheriff Louis P. Royer of Bond County, Ill., on his way to St. Louis today to see the ball game, met up with his friend, Walter Brown, a barber, who boarded the train at Sorrento.

While fanning as the train sped toward St. Louis, Royer carelessly drew a pair of handcuffs out of his pocket and began twirling them with his fingers. Brown wanted to see how the handcuffs worked, and the Sheriff snapped them on his wrists.

Then the Sheriff discovered that he had left his keys in his every-day pants pocket. At East St. Louis Sheriff Royer and Brown got off the train and went to the Sheriff's office, expecting to find a key there that would fit the locks. But the Bond County type of handcuffs had been discarded in East St. Louis 15 years ago and Royer was forced to march Brown up Collinsville avenue to a locksmith's shop, where the handcuffs were filed off.

DR. FLEXNER TELLS OF TUBERCULOSIS PREVENTION WORK

Says Notification and Registration by City Will Help Check Death Rate.

ATTENDS DEDICATION

Declares Medical School of Washington University Should Be of Much Assistance.

Dr. Simon Flexner of New York, director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, speaking last night at the new Washington University Medical School on "Infective Diseases and Their Control," referred to the problem of tuberculosis prevention. St. Louis is particularly interested in this, because of the high relative death rate from that cause here, and the need for preventive measures which is coming to be realized by the city government.

Dr. Flexner spoke of tuberculosis as a disease which is communicated chiefly by human agency. It is possible for tuberculosis to be transmitted through milk, he said, but research has led to the conclusion that most of the infections come from human beings who have the disease.

This is the ground taken by the St. Louis Society for the Relief and Prevention of Tuberculosis, and the Health Commissioner's staff. They hold that a staff of municipal visiting nurses, to educate the public and protect it against infection, is the most urgent need at present. Protective measures regarding milk have been taken here for some years past.

View on St. Louis Situation. After his lecture, Dr. Flexner was asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter for his opinion as to the needs of St. Louis in an anti-tuberculosis campaign. He replied that he would prefer to leave discussion of this matter to St. Louis medical men, who are familiar with local conditions.

"I would not think," he remarked, "that any unfavorable condition as to public health could continue long in St. Louis, after this medical school has begun the great work that is before it in its new location, and with its new equipment."

"What has been done here as to tuberculosis?" Dr. Flexner asked. He was told that a private society, with limited resources, had employed a few nurses and maintained an open air school, and that the city had a comparatively small sanatorium and was about to begin the employment of a few visiting nurses.

"That is good," he remarked. "The other necessary steps will undoubtedly follow—notification, registration and the rest. The problem of tuberculosis is one which each city must work out through its medical men. New York has been very successful in its effort of the past few years, to reduce the tuberculosis death rate and check the spread of the disease. The work in New York and other cities have done is a matter of record, and your physician will undoubtedly be able to decide on the measures most needed here, and to convince the city government of the need for them."

Talks on Infantile Paralysis. In his lecture Dr. Flexner spoke of the research work as to poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, in which he achieved one of his greatest scientific triumphs. He said that germs were transmitted by individuals, being carried in the noses and throats of persons not themselves infected with the disease, particularly the parents of children who suffered from it. He said the theory that domestic animals, particularly chickens, transmit the disease, had not been borne out by research, although cases were on record where a form of paralysis among chickens (limber-neck) had been coincidental with infantile paralysis among children. He said, however, that the paralysis of chickens was a distinct disease from infantile paralysis.

The theory that the germ of infantile paralysis was carried from the bodies of limber-neck chickens, by flies, to children was advanced in St. Louis years ago by Dr. E. W. Saunders, a specialist in children's diseases. He conducted a demonstration, before other physicians, in which a monkey died from paralysis after having been apparently infected with germs from a limber-neck chicken. But Dr. Flexner declared that in measures to check infantile paralysis, preventive science should "concentrate on the personal factor."

Dr. Flexner quoted Prof. Devine of Columbia University, head of the Associated Charities of New York, as having stated that 75 per cent of the poverty in that city was the result of disease. He limited his discussion to diseases caused by microorganisms, or germs, and divided these between the classes in which infection is carried by persons and that in which it is carried by animals or insects.

The human being does not always become free from certain disease germs at the time of recovery from the disease, he said, and it is thus possible for persons, not themselves ill, to carry the germs of disease to others. He mentioned the case of Typhoid Mary in New York as an example of this.

He spoke of the work done for the Panama Canal Zone in banishing the mosquito, thereby doing away with yellow fever, and spoke of the present plague of typhus fever in Serbia as a disease which could be reached by somewhat similar measures.

Typhus fever, he said, is communicated by vermin, and a patient who has been thoroughly cleaned, and from whom no germs can be reached, can lie in bed with a healthy person, without causing infection to the latter. In the same manner, he said, a healthy person could lie in bed with a yellow fever patient without danger, if no insects are about.

PARKWAY COULD BE ABANDONED IF
COST IS EXCESSIVE

Dropping of Project to Widen Twelfth Street Cited to Show Procedure.

REPORT TO BE FILED

City Asks Dismissal of Condemnation Suits Before Commissioners Act.

Dismissal of the condemnation suit to widen Twelfth street, between Market and Spruce streets, from 80 to 150 feet, because it was found after investigation by court commissioners that it would cost $600,000 too great a sum—is cited by advocates as an example of the parkway procedure if it is ratified by voters at the referendum election, June 8.

Assistant City Counselor Senn filed a motion last Monday with Circuit Judge Anderson to have the Twelfth street suit dismissed before the commissioners file the report. Senn filed a second motion yesterday to have the Court remove A. H. Frederik, now serving a 10-year sentence for forging real estate deeds on the ground of moral unfitness to serve as one of the three commissioners. The Court has not acted on the motion to dismiss before the report is filed because attorneys for interested property holders have filed a motion asking the Court to order the commissioners to file a report.

Would Bind City for Ten Years.
If the report is filed and the city then withdraws its suit, under the charter the city could not again attempt to widen Twelfth street for 10 years, except upon petition of owners of two-thirds of the frontage affected. The only issue is whether the city shall be permitted to withdraw the suit prior to a final report by the three commissioners, the substance of which is known to city officials in advance.

Louis Nolte and Robert Rutledge, majority of the Twelfth Street Commission, have decided the city itself must pay approximately $600,000 if it condemns a 40-foot strip on the east line and a 20-foot strip on the west line of Twelfth street between Market and Spruce streets.

Mayor Kiel and Comptroller Playe have announced that the city has no means with which to pay this sum and they do not consider the improvement worth the amount, even if it was available. The city would have to submit a bond issue to public vote, and the city adopted by two-thirds of those voting in order to carry out the condemnation. The city is therefore compelled to dismiss the suit.

The parkway ordinance, to be voted on June 8, is similar to the Twelfth street ordinance passed a year ago. If the parkway ordinance is ratified at the referendum election, a commission of three will be appointed by the Circuit Court to investigate the cost of the city blocks which the city proposes to condemn, and also to lay out a benefit district and assess special benefits against property within it.

When the commissioners finish their investigation and make known their decision, the city may dismiss the suit for any reason it is not desired to acquire the property on the basis fixed, as in the case of the Twelfth street widening.

How Suit Could Be Dropped.
The suit might be dismissed on motion of the City Counselor, as attempted in the present instance, or the Counselor might be directed by the Mayor, Comptroller or Board of Public Service or Board of Aldermen to dismiss the suit. In the Twelfth street instance, the Board of Public Service a week ago introduced a bill in the Board of Aldermen, directing its dismissal, but the City Counselor determined to act without awaiting this instruction.

If no public authority should move to have a condemnation suit dismissed, the people could, under the new charter, file initiative petition of 7 per cent of registered voters, submitting an ordinance directing the dismissal. If this ordinance were enacted by the Board of Aldermen, and Mayor within 40 days, it would be submitted to a public vote at the next regular or special election.

The parkway campaign under the Citizens' Committee of 130 appointed by Mayor Kiel, will be aimed to impress on voters the fact that a vote for the ordinance June 8, is a vote merely to investigate the cost of the proposed parkway. A vote against the parkway ordinance, is a vote against investigating whether the parkway can be afforded by the city.

After the investigation conducted by court commissioners, the project not only may be abandoned by the city at will, as in the case of the Twelfth street widening, but it probably would require the assent of two-thirds of the voting public to a bond issue before the city could acquire the 21 city blocks involved in the parkway plan.

How Cost Could Be Assessed.

The cost of the parkway might be assessed entirely against benefited property, entirely against the city treasury or might be divided between the city and benefited property. The property is assessed at $1,000,000, and it is certain it will cost something in excess of this amount. Even if all of the cost were assessed against benefited property, to be collected in the shape of special taxes, the city would be compelled to arrange a bond to pay into court the full amount of the award when the condemned property is taken over, according to the city law department.

Under the charter the Board of Aldermen, upon recommendation of the Board of Public Service, might by ordinance authorize an issue of local improvement bonds to the amount of the special taxes assessed against benefited property for the parkway. These bonds would have to be sold and the proceeds paid into court before the property could be taken. These bonds, not being a lien upon the credit of the city, would not have to be ratified by two-thirds vote of the public. It would be lawful, however, for voters to file a referendum petition and compel a public vote on such an ordinance, in the opinion of lawyers in the city service.

If any substantial portion or all of the cost should be assessed against the city by the commissioners, the city would have to meet the expense by an issue of 20-year bonds with the assent of two-thirds of the voters at an election.

$600,000,000 SPENT LAST YEAR IN U. S. BY ADVERTISERS

San Francisco Expert at Chicago Denounces Quackery and Poking at Enemy of Business.

CHICAGO, April 28.—"Reject all forms of objectionable advertising—the quacks and fakery—and there will be more advertisers and quicker results," William Woodhead of San Francisco, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, told members of the Association of Commerce in an address yesterday.

Woodhead is in Chicago to arrange for the world convention of advertising clubs, to be held here in June. Ten thousand advertising experts from all countries are expected.

"The greatest enemy to successful advertising and business is the quack and the faker," Woodhead said. "Every time a man or woman is cheated by a bogus advertisement the pulling power of all advertising is so much weakened because the faker and the publisher have taught just so many more people distrust all advertising." Woodhead said that 40 years ago there were about 500 publications of all kinds in the United States and that today there were more than 25,000. He estimated that more than $600,000,000 was spent in advertising in this country last year.

EATING MEAT REGULARLY CLOGS THE KIDNEYS, CAUSING PAINS IN THE BACK

Don't fail to flush your Kidneys occasionally with a tablespoonful of harmless fruit Salts to avoid danger.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally. We have backache and dull misery in the kidney region; we have leadaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble—ADV.

GROGER BOEHM DECLARES WAR ON BARBER GENDRON

"Offensive" Lands a Right on Jaw, Whereupon Neutrals Intervene.

Otto Boehm, a grocer at Ashland and Prairie avenues, and John H. Gendron, barber at Prairie avenue and Hebert street, went to war Tuesday night. The engagement was indecisive, because trials intervened.

The grocer was busy today placing the blame for the hostilities on the barber and telling what he would have done if it had not been for intervention. Gendron was just as busy explaining that it was the grocer who began hostilities and describing what Boehm would have looked like if the battle had been permitted to continue. Boehm announced a general blockade against Gendron, and the barber gave notice that shaves and haircuts are now unconditional contraband, so far as the grocer is concerned.

Gendron says the trouble dates back seven years, when he bought a chicken from Boehm which was not up to expectations. He took it back and Boehm gave him a steak in place of it. Gendron kept on buying at Boehm's and Boehm kept on going to Gendron for his shaves.

Last Thanksgiving Gendron bought a duck from Boehm, for which he thought Boehm charged too much, and trade relations were suspended. Boehm, Gendron says, spread the report that Gendron was not any too particular whom he shaved.

Last night Gendron made a drive into Boehm's territory, but says he only wanted to tell Boehm that it was not true, what Boehm had been saying. He told Boehm. The grocer denied that he had been saying any such thing. Gendron said he would bring the man who told him. He was withdrawing in good order when Boehm sent his right to Gendron's jaw.

Gendron says he delivered a counter offensive and regained all the ground that he had lost. Then the neighbors intervened.

Boehm says he does not know anything about the chicken or the duck. All that he knows is that Gendron invaded his grocery and accused him of saying things he never said and if Gendron comes over again he will have him arrested. And Gendron says if Boehm says again what Boehm says he never said there will be a suit for slander. And that is the way it stands.

HOW ADVERTISING MADE A TOBACCO LABORER A RICH MAN

In an interview with Richard J. Reynolds, president of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. of Winston-Salem, N. C., that has been spread all over the United States and Canada by the N. W. Ayer & Son Advertising Co. of Philadelphia, many reasons are given to show the great returns that accrue from advertising, especially in the daily newspaper. This interview was sent forth by the N. W. Ayer & Son agency with the idea to show all big advertisers that their ideas "that it always pays to advertise" had been confirmed by the head of the Reynolds Tobacco Co.

R. J. Reynolds began life just one step lower than the first rung on the ladder of fame. If he had made a false move at the start he would have perhaps stayed all his life as a day laborer at a tobacco factory.

But, as he says, in this now famous interview, it was advertising, backed up by the principle of his own convictions, and the tobacco that he manufactured, which brought him from comparative poverty to riches.

In the first year that he began to advertise, R. J. Reynolds spent $4000. He found this expenditure increased his output 500,000 pounds of tobacco. That was in 1884. The following year he increased his advertising appropriation to $20,000, and his business doubled. Ever since then the Reynolds company has kept on increasing its advertising appropriation, until now the sum allotted each year represents between 2 and 3 per cent of the annual sales. The business now amounts to an output of many millions of pounds of tobacco each year, made into Prince Albert smoking tobacco and Camel cigarettes.

MASKED MAN IS DRIVEN OFF
Disappears With Pistol After Door Is Slammed in His Face.
Charles Boss of 2315 Klein street, who was visiting at the home of Mrs. Josephine Corneau, 3515 Barrett street, responded to a knock at the kitchen door about 9:30 o'clock last night. When he opened the door he was confronted by a man wearing a handkerchief over the lower part of his face, who pointed a revolver at him.
Boss slammed the door shut and the mysterious visitor departed. Boss and Mrs. Corneau told the police they had no idea who the man was or the purpose of his visit.

PRESIDENT TRIES TO STOP PROTEST AGAINST NAGEL

Chiefs of Engineers in Wage Dispute Reply They Are Acting on Advice of Counsel.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Wilson personally is supporting efforts of the Board of Mediation and Conciliation to stop the protest against Charles Nagel of St. Louis as a member of the arbitration board trying to settle the Western railway wage dispute. V. S. Carter and Warren S. Stone, representing the 55,000 engineers and firemen involved, have replied, however, that they took the step by advice of counsel.
Nagel is one of two arbitrators named by the Board of Mediation and Conciliation under the Newlands act, after the two sides to the controversy had selected two men each and had failed to agree on the other two.
President Wilson is taking an active interest in the situation partly because it was at his personal request that the arbitration board was agreed to last summer after it seemed that a strike of the engineers and firemen on 38 Western railroads was certain.

Nagel Says Grounds of Protest Against Him Are Absurd.
CHICAGO, April 28.—Charles Nagel, member of the Federal Board of Arbitration in the wage dispute, said today he had no intention of resigning in response to the protest filed against him by the officials of the brotherhoods.

"The grounds upon which the protest is based are absurd," Nagel said. "When I accepted this place against my own wishes my business connections were well known. I am trustee for the Busch estate, which owns stocks and bonds, and I am associated in several other businesses having stocks and bonds of railroads."

"I am a director of the St. Louis Union Trust Co. and of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. They hold stocks and bonds. My position was well understood by the public. I can say, however, that I own no stocks and bonds of railroads in my own name."
"I accepted this place against my will. I had just returned from abroad and had hardly been in my office before Judge Chambers and Judge Knapp of the Mediation Board came from Washington to see me."

"I tried to find an excuse, but they urged that it was a public duty for me to take it. I only wish the protest had come earlier and I would have rejoiced at the opportunity to be relieved. Now it is too late."

WOMEN BEGIN WORK TO PUT AN END TO MAN-MADE WAR

American Delegates Take Large Part in Opening of Peace Congress at the Hague—Miss Jane Addams Presides.
THE HAGUE, April 28.—"The declaration of war was solely man's affair, let the bringing about of peace be woman's work." This is the great theme of the International Congress of Women in session here. After active routine work under the unanimously chosen chairwoman, Jane Addams of Chicago, many theoretical resolutions were adopted at the meeting yesterday.

The American delegates, including Miss Grace Abbott of Chicago, Miss Emily Balch of Wellesley College, Sophisticated Breckenridge of Chicago and Miss Annie E. Malloy of Boston, took a notable part in the debates.
The Congress listened in the evening to addresses by leading representatives from several countries. Miss Florence Holbrook of Chicago spoke on woman's task of educating children by inculcating ideals of peace and admiration for constructive ability and for the beautiful arts in place of adoration of historic war heroes.

Mme. Rosika Schwimmer, president of the Hungarian Women's Suffrage Association, in an eloquent speech portrayed women and not men as the protectors of the home.

BANK WINS A TEN-YEAR SUIT

Gets Back Money It Paid Out to Make Good Forged Checks.

NEW YORK, April 28.—If Jones steals money from Brown and later forges Smith's name to a check and reimburses Brown, who is the goat? The Court of Appeals says it is Brown.
Lyman S. Andrews, secretary to the late Andrew H. Green, converted to his own use money sent to Green by the Ogden estate. Later he forged checks for $15,000 and replaced the Ogden money, then went to Sing Sing. The bank repaid the Green estate the amount it had paid out on the forged checks, then sued the Ogden estate. After nearly 10 years in court, a decision was obtained this week by the bank. The Ogden estate will now try to collect from the Green estate, alleging it was responsible for the acts of Green's secretary.

TOLLEDO, O., April 28.—Charles H. (Pop) Baker, 79 years old, a circus man for 50 years, died here last night at the county infirmary. Baker brought out George Primrose, minstrel, and 12 famous side show curiosities. Baker was an intimate friend of the late President Cleveland.

Aero Prizes Total $20,000.
NEW YORK, April 28.—The Aero Club of America has been notified that the Aero Club of Illinois has decided to offer prizes aggregating $10,000 for the national aeroplane competition which is to be held July 4 to Oct. 12. This offer makes a total of $23,000 already subscribed for the competition.

STARTING AT 9 A. M. FRIDAY $100,000 PURCHASE

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS OF CHOICE SUITS AND EXTRA PANTS—ALL INCLUDED WITHOUT RESERVE IN THIS MIGHTY

HALF-PRICE SALE

This stock has been brought to St. Louis and is now ready, marked at prices that will simply astound you. The values are positively without precedent and you'll be the first one to emphatically endorse this statement when you see the handsome Suits and Trousers for men, young men and boys that are here now on sale at one-half price.

The recent failure of J. B. Greenhut & Co., recognized as one of New York's leading mammoth department stores, left over a million dollars' worth of undelivered Spring merchandise on the hands of Eastern makers. The manufacturers were forced to resort to unparalleled price concessions to convert these goods into cash.

Our president, Mr. Max Weil, made a special trip to New York, which resulted in the closing out of the cream of all the undelivered Greenhut clothing orders at cash discounts that have never before been equaled. And now comes this mighty sale—everything is going at one-half its actual worth. When we say that a $10 bill will now do the work of $20, we mean every word in that statement. The city of St. Louis has never experienced a Clothing event that measures up to this sale of $100,000 worth of Suits and Trousers at exactly one-half price.

ONCE FAMOUS PAINTER DIES

Francis Duque, Much Sought 46 Years Ago, Expires in Obscurity. NEW YORK, April 28.—Wealthy art buyers who 46 years ago overwhelmed Francis Duque with their commissions were surprised today to learn that he had died in an obscure studio to which he retired after his former success waned. He expired suddenly yesterday of cerebral hemorrhage.

America, 33 years ago. After one of his works had been accepted by the Paris salon he became a favorite here. His income was large, but later the death of his son and his wife so affected his work, it was said, that he lost popularity. For years he obtained a scanty living by giving lessons in painting.

BIDDLE WEDDING

MADE UNIQUE BY ITS DEMOCRACY

Philadelphia's Blue Bloods and Pugilists Rub Elbows in Large Gathering.

BRIDE WEARS NO JEWEL

Bank Account and Beautiful New York Home Are Among the Gifts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—Only 17 years old on Tuesday, Cordelia Biddle, daughter of Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, was married to Arthur Buchanan Duke of New York, yesterday afternoon. At the reception in the Biddle home the engagement of Miss Mary L. Duke, the bridegroom's sister, to wed Anthony Drexel Biddle Jr., the bride's brother, became known. It was not formally announced by the young woman's parents Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin N. Duke, but all present extended congratulations without objection from the families concerned.

In splendor, in public interest, in the wealth of the families, in the crowds inside and outside there has been no wedding in Philadelphia for many years that equaled it. In democracy the gathering was unique. Every grade of society was represented for "Tony" Biddle, the bride's brother, a "blueblood" by birth and inherited wealth, is very much of a democrat by choice, and has friends both high and low.

The bride's gown was of white satin made on exquisitely simple, girlish lines. It was veiled with soft white tulle, with extremely short-waisted and ankle-length skirt. The long court train, from the low cut bodice, was cut square, and edged with orange blossoms. Her long tulle veil was full and fluffy, and fastened to her hair with a simple band of orange blossoms. She carried a huge arm bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Particularly noticeable about her dress was the fact that she wore no jewelry, although her gifts of gems from the bridegroom's family alone were worth more than $100,000. Of all those wonderful gifts, the only one she took with her last night was her husband's present, a diamond necklace worth $25,000. The $50,000 necklace of graduated pearls which his father gave the bride was left in a safety vault.

Miss Mary L. Duke, the maid of honor, sister of the bridegroom and the fiancée of the bride's brother, wore pink pussy willow taffeta, a trifle deeper in shade than the frocks worn by the bridesmaids. It was made with a short waist and a very full skirt. The skirt was veiled with pink tulle with wide bands of taffeta, and the corsage was composed of cream lace, trimmed with garlands of tiny pastel shade spring flowers.

Bridesmaids in Castle Gown. The bridesmaids' gowns were made in the same quaint fashion of very pale pink taffeta, draped with tulle and adorned with wide bands. The gowns were on the order of those introduced by Mrs. Vernon Castle, and, as Mrs. Biddle said, so far as dresses went, it was a Castle wedding. The bridesmaids' hats, and in this detail they wore the same as the maid of honor, were of pink neapolitan straw, large and flat, and adorned with one large pink rose and streamers of blue grosgrain ribbon.

The wedding gifts, aggregating more than $200,000, include, in addition to the $50,000 necklace from the bridegroom's parents and the $25,000 diamond necklace from the bridegroom, a diamond bracelet from the bridegroom's uncle, James Duke; a gold mesh hand bag, inherited with rubies and sapphires from Miss Mary Duke, the bridegroom's sister; a diamond and sapphire ring from Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury; a bank account providing a large annuity from the bride's father, and a diamond pin from Mr. and Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel.

SAYS TESTIMONY WAS FALSE
Widow of slain Man Aids Men Convicted of Crime.

WINCHESTER, Ky., April 28.—At the hearing here on the motion for a new trial for T. Q. Wallace and Frank Chaney, who were found guilty of murdering Houston Underwood, Mrs. Belle Underwood, the widow of the murdered man, swore yesterday that her testimony at the trial of Wallace and Chaney were false. She said she had been threatened and in fear told a false story.

OIL FEEDS FLAMES IN THEATER

Inquiry Follows Fifth Recent Blaze in Bush Temple, Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Detectives started investigation today into the cause of the fire which last night caused $25,000 damage to the Bush Temple Theater Building.

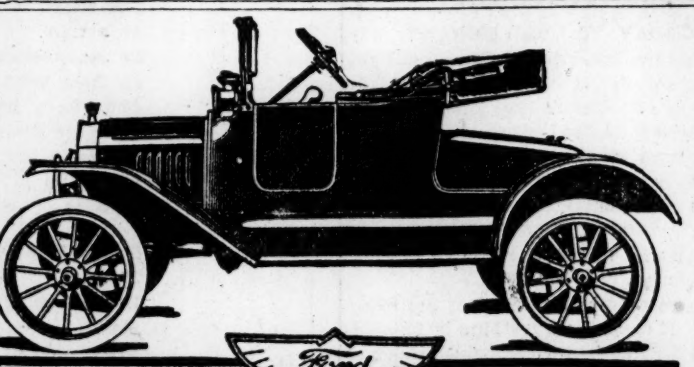

The alarm wires leading from the building had been cut, it was said, and the stage had been drenched with oil. Four firemen were injured before the flames were brought under control. It was the fifth mysterious blaze in the building within a year, all occurring late at night after the audience had left.

For Freckled, Rough or Spotty Complexions

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing in early spring, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercorized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any drugist's. There is no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand-new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face. Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness are best treated by a simple application of powdered azolette, 1 cc. dissolved in 1/4 pt. witch hazel. Bathing the face in this produces a truly marvellous transformation.—ADV.

Every Man Read This

This treatment is said to have acquired a wonderful reputation throughout the East, owing to the peculiar propensity to fortify the nerve force and generate health and a consequent personal magnetism, so essential to the happiness of every normal human being. It is claimed to be a blessing to those who are physically impaired, gloomy, despondent, nervous, or who have trembling of the limbs, dizziness, heart palpitation, cold hands and feet, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing and general inability to act rationally as others do. Also of vast benefit to writers, professional men, office workers and the victims of society's late hours and over-indulgence in wines, liquors, etc.

By obtaining the treatment at some well stocked pharmacy, no one need know of another's trouble. While the treatment has been widely prescribed and dispensed heretofore by physicians and pharmacists, the grain tablets are so prepared with full directions for self-administration that it is wholly unnecessary to pay a physician for prescribing them. Just ask for three-grain Cadomene tablets, begin their use and soon all the joy of a healthy body, sound nerves and strength will be felt.—ADVERTISEMENT.

How You Can Quickly Remove Hairy Growths

(Aids to Beauty)
A well-known beauty specialist advises this treatment for the removal of hair from the face: Mix into a paste some powdered talc and water, apply to hairy surface and after about 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This method is quick and entirely safe. To avoid disappointment, however, it is well to make certain you get genuine talc.—ADV.

When Cupid Wills

By George Elmer Cobb.

It was only a quick, light footstep, but Walter Bliss had waited for it. He followed its echo till it died away, and then sat down at the window in his room to dream about its owner, as he had done many a time before.

It was half an hour later when the housemaid came into the room and placed some fresh towels in the rack. "Thank you," said Walter, in his usual courteous way. "I wanted to ask you: wasn't that Miss Thorpe who just returned?"

"Yes, Mr. Bliss," replied the maid. "I hope she has found employment?"

"She has—and it's too bad!"

"What! When she has so patiently sought employment for over two weeks?"

"I don't mean that," quickly explained Norah. "You see, sir, dear young lady that she is, she came home just filled up with joy at getting something to do. You know, she is a typewriter. Well, she brought home a lot of stuff to copy, but he had never spoken to the young girl in whom he had become interested and whose lack of employment he had learned from the talkative Norah.

Walter Bliss said no more just then. He was a roomer in the same house, but he had never spoken to the young girl in whom he had become interested and whose lack of employment he had learned from the talkative Norah.

Walter Tackles the Job.

WALTER had a good position. He himself very often did extra work on his own typewriter, but generally the Saturday afternoons afforded sufficient time to cover this. He paced the floor of the room after Norah had gone. He could not get Miss Thorpe out of his mind.

He went out into the hall as he heard the maid come its length.

"Norah," he said, "you're a good girl and I know you like Miss Thorpe."

"I do, indeed, sir," she responded.

"She is so kind and good to me, I pity her, too. It's too bad she will have to lose a good chance by taking that work back in the morning, isn't it, now?"

"Would you like to prevent just that?" inquired Walter.

"I would, indeed, sir. Why, what do you mean?"

"You bring it to me, Norah," directed

Walter. "We can be immensely helpful to Miss Thorpe. I will do the copying on my own machine. Then, early in the morning, you come and get the work and place it in her room. When she will see it as soon as she returns."

Norah stared at this generous-hearted young man.

"You are a good man, Mr. Bliss," she said, "and you'll get a blessing for this. When I tell Miss Thorpe of your kindness."

"Oh, dear! not that," immediately interrupted Walter. That must be the last thing in the world to do. No, no, you must faithfully promise me that you will never tell Miss Thorpe about my share in the transaction."

"But she will want to know!"

"I will place a note in the work that will explain everything," said Walter.

"And here, Norah," he continued, "is a dollar to get yourself a new ribbon."

But Norah scorned to be concerned in the matter and take pay for doing a kindness to "that sweet lady, bless her dear, good heart!"

"Ten thousand words at the least," estimated Walter, and took off his coat and settled down to an all-night's task.

Verda Nurses Walter.

WHEN Verda Thorpe came home from her mission of mercy next morning she was fairly bewildered to discover the work she had set aside all neatly done.

A note on top of the copied sheets read: "A friend who appreciates your noble sacrifice for a dying friend wishes to contribute this much of his time to help you out."

The work gained Verda a permanent position. Many a time she tried to puzzle out who her kind helper could be. Norah knew nothing when Verda questioned her.

Three weeks later Walter came home with a heavy cold one evening. The next morning he awoke with a fever. That same evening he was slightly delirious. Norah devoted all the time she could to attending to him. She told Verda of the case.

"If you could watch him and give him his medicine until 9 o'clock this evening," said Norah, just after supper. "I have my regular work to do till then."

"Surely I will, Norah," assented Verda, and thus it was fate brought those two together.

Miss Thorpe started in the chair where she sat as she heard her name. "Verda," whispered softly over and over again by the slumbering invalid.

Then he was quiet for an hour. Verda moved out who her kind helper could be. Norah knew nothing when Verda questioned her.

"Why! What is this?" mysteriously murmured the astonished young lady.

"For, as she restored the sheets, she recognized them as covering the subject of the work that had been so strangely done for her three weeks previously.

Verda Makes a Discovery.

THEY were spoiled sheets. A light dawned upon her mind all of a sudden. At that moment the maid entered the room.

"Norah," awoke Verda, fluttering, "there is a mystery here I cannot fathom. Your patient appears to know my name."

"Oh, yes, ma'am. He has inquired about you every day since you came here."

"And I found some writing!"—and Verda recited the rest of her story. "You must know what this means!" she exclaimed, noticing an embarrassed expression in Norah's face. "Speak out, Norah!"

"No, ma'am," dissented Norah, sturdily. "Let him tell you."

"Oh, he can, can he?" questioned Verda quickly.

"Yes, ma'am," replied Norah meekly. "Walter was convalescent the next day. That evening Norah came to him. 'I'll have to tell her, sir,' she said. 'Have to tell whom and what?'"

asked Walter.

"Miss Thorpe's secret," explained Norah, and she blurted out the story of the discovery of the young lady in question.

It came about later that the landlady invited both of them to supper—Norah's early work. After friendly Norah, a careless remark opened up the theme that was uppermost in the minds of both. There was a frank confession.

"I can never thank you," said Verda.

The Sandman Story for Tonight.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

ONCE upon a time there lived upon the shores of a large lake a little Indian boy named Swift Wings. For in all the tribe there was no one who could equal him in a race. In the morning he would spend his time running along the shore to dash into the blue water, then in the afternoon he went into the forest to hunt, always returning with game, which his grant-mother cooked for supper. As the years went by he grew tall, strong, and as fleet as a deer.

One day, when he was about 25, he slung his quiver of arrows on his back, put a new string in his best red bow and set out through the woods toward the mountains. All the morning he hunted, but saw nothing until, at last, he came suddenly upon a beautiful snow-white, fawn feeding near a stream. The fawn sprang away and the boy followed almost as swiftly.

FOR hours the chase kept up till at sunset the fawn stopped to drink at a bubbling spring in the rocks. Just as Swift Wings placed an arrow in his bow to shoot, the sunlight fell on the fawn's head and there stood a lovely maiden instead of a deer. The Indian girl came up to the astonished boy and told him with tears in her eyes that she was under the spell of a witch who lived in the Cave of the Winds at the foot of the mountain, but that every day at sunset she could resume her proper form for half an hour.

Swift Wings told her he would go in search of the witch and break the spell, but the girl begged him first to take two leaves from a magic bush that grew above the spring, and to lay these on the witch's eyes if he could catch her asleep. Then she plucked a handful of red berries from the bush and put them in his pocket, saying he might find them useful.

SWIFT WINGS set out for the mountain and about the time the moon rose found the mouth of a big cave concealed in a huge chag through which the winds rushed in a mighty blast. He entered bravely and there, hovering about a big fire, sat the witch clad in rags and stirring her broth. The boy sat down but said nothing. The witch got up, went to a cupboard and, taking out of a box some bits of grain, gave them to Swift Wings, telling him to eat them. But when her head was bent over the pot he threw them away and ate the berries from his pocket instead. The witch thought he had eaten the grains she had given him, which were poisonous, as she told him to lie on a skin in the corner, thinking by morning he would be dead. Then she went to sleep herself. But at midnight the boy arose and placed a leaf from the magic bush

COCOANUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Just plain mulisified coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulisified coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—ADV.

on each of the old witch's eyes. Then he opened the cupboard, took the ribbon she had stolen and started off with it all on his back. Just out of the door stood the fawn, and as he looked at her, she became a maiden again, and placed her hand in his. So with the bag of gold they walked away to the tent of Swift Wings and left the old witch snoring. And there she is still snoring to this day.

CAR LINE CHANGES WHEN STATE BOARD MAKES ITS REPORT

President McCulloch Says Company Is Waiting Upon Commission's Recommendations.

Richard McCulloch, president and general manager of the United Railways Co., told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that the company was waiting for the report of the Missouri Public Service Commission with respect to extensions of lines and improvements for relieving congestion of traffic before making any definite arrangements with the city authorities along these lines.

In a recent interview with a Post-Dispatch reporter McCulloch said the United Railways would meet the requirements of the Public Service Commission even if it bankrupted the company. Director of Public Utilities Hooker, in a speech before the Business Men's League yesterday, said he hoped to be able to make announcement soon that the United Railways would make extensions of lines in North and South St. Louis that would give direct connection with Broadway, and would make other improvements for relieving the congested conditions of traffic during the rush hours.

McCulloch said that proposed extensions of the lines, and the increased facilities for handling traffic during rush hours, had been carefully considered by the Public Service Commission, and had been discussed before that body in several hearings at the Planters Hotel.

Expecting Report Every Day.
"We are expecting the report of the commission every day," McCulloch said today. "I do not think it would be wise for the railways company to do anything until it knows definitely what the Public Service Commission expects from it. We have discussed these matters with Director Hooker as we did with the Public Service Commission."

The engineers of the Public Service Commission, after making an investigation of traffic conditions in St. Louis, recommended that the railways company be required to operate sufficient cars during the rush-hour periods to provide 76 seats for each 100 passengers transported. During the hour rush-hour periods the engineers recommended that the company operate enough cars to provide seats for practically all passengers. The railways company, at the public hearings, protested against this recommendation, declaring that the standard fixed was too severe, and was higher than the standard made by any other Public Service Commission.

Eager to Put in Loops.
The company's officials indicated that they were eager to put in all the loops recommended by the engineers for the relief of traffic conditions in the business districts.

The engineers recommended the extension of the Taylor line from Florissant avenue to Broadway to provide a direct connection between North Broadway and the western and southwestern portions of the city. The cost of this extension was estimated at only $50,000.

Another North St. Louis extension recommended by the engineers was that of the Jefferson avenue line from Jefferson avenue and Hebert street to Broadway and Salisbury street. By operating the Jefferson cars on Broadway between Salisbury street and Brown street, a direct connection with the McKinley bridge would be formed.

MAY 15 IS TO BE "FLY DAY"
$6000 NEEDED TO FIGHT PEST

Health Department to Ask That on That Day School Children Give a Penny Each.

Health Department officials yesterday decided to declare May 15 to be "Fly Day" in St. Louis and to ask that on that day each school child contribute a penny to a fund to exterminate flies in the city.

Letters will be sent to 50 business men asking them to contribute $100 each to the fund, and a general request for contributions will be made. Dr. G. A. Jordan, Assistant Health Commissioner, estimates that at least $5000 will be needed for the campaign against flies.

Posters on billboards, cards in street cars and circulars sent to homes will urge all persons to kill flies and to aid in the campaign by cleaning their premises and by contributing to the fund.

IS YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFUL? Here's a Splendid Home-made Tonic.

In a pint of clear, soft water dissolve one-half ounce Concentrated Hairwand Powder and apply to the hair and scalp once or twice daily. This amount will last for some time, and is easy to apply and perfectly harmless. It lives up to the scalp and roots of the hair, and promotes a heavy and luxuriant growth. It may be used on the eyebrows and lashes and is a boon to the man wearing, or wishing to grow a moustache.

It is also a wonderful preparation to use on children's hair, as it contains no oil, keeps the scalp clean and active and makes the hair grow thick and long. Get it today and begin using it at once. Be careful to apply it only where you want hair to grow.—ADVERTISEMENT.

Blood Risings Begin A Mere Speck

Stop Them From Growing Large and Dangerous.

Nearly everyone who uses S. S. S. for the blood recalls a friend who went through untold suffering as the result of a mere pimple or small blood rising. A host of people did not realize, until too late, what may result from a slight skin abrasion. But they recovered if they used S. S. S., and in almost every village and hamlet, every crossroad and away back of the road is someone who will tell you how S. S. S. the famous blood purifier, restored his health.

It is a most interesting fact that this remarkable vegetable medicine overhauls the blood in a manner that excites curious minds.

But it acts in accordance with accepted physiological laws and yet its effect is almost beyond comprehension to those who are wedded to such drugs as mercury, calomel, arsenic, iodine of potash, copper and other baneful influences which all the world bears silent testimony to their destructive tendencies.

S. S. S. is indeed a nature's tribute to what we need and it is worthy of note that in almost any drug store throughout the country you will find it regularly in stock. Get a bottle today. And if you believe you are a peculiar case, write to the Medical Adviser of the Swift Specific Co., 100 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. NEGRO REGIMENTS ON BORDER PRAISED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

Men of Ninth and Tenth Officially Complimented for Conduct and Service at Naco, Ariz.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Wilson through Secretary Garrison has officially complimented the officers and enlisted men of the Ninth and Tenth Regiments of cavalry (negroes) for their work in patrolling the Mexican border.

line to enforce the neutrality laws of the United States during the fighting between the Carranza and Villa forces. Several American soldiers were wounded during the engagements between the Mexican forces.

"By direction of the President," says Secretary Garrison, "I take great pleasure in expressing to the officers and enlisted men of the Ninth and Tenth Cavalry his appreciation of their splendid conduct and efficient service in the enforcement of the United States neutrality laws at Naco, Ariz., during November, December and January last. The Ninth Cavalry is at Fort Douglas, Ariz., and the Tenth Cavalry is at Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

PRAYED ALL NIGHT BEFORE HE PLEADED GUILTY TO ROBBERY

"I am at Peace Now," Declares
New York Business Man Who Confessed in Court.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 2.—A state of emotional exaltation—"peace," he calls it—has come upon Philip T. White since his confession in open court that while he was a respected $6000-a-year business man by day, he associated with highwaymen at night and joined them in a daylight robbery of his own firm. White was formerly sales manager for John W. Masury & Son, paint manufacturers, in Brooklyn, and was indicted for complicity in robbing bank messengers of the firm of $3000 on June 5 last. He will be sentenced Wednesday.

While White, in his cell, rejoices over having made a clean breast of his crime, his wife sits in her Elizabeth (N. J.) home trying to formulate plans for the future in which she will be alone with her two small children.

Wife Forgives Him.
"I have forgiven Philip," she said today. "Indeed, I have greater confidence in him than ever. He fell—as many a good man has fallen—but he has repented and I know there was no crime in his heart. Some day we'll be together again and happy and live down all this."

"The children and I will get along. I am not afraid. I am well and I am strong, hearty children. I am facing the future hopefully."
Until White whispered to her as he entered Justice Aspinwall's courtroom yesterday that he had prayed all night and intended to confess, Mrs. White believed absolutely in his innocence. White seems almost as much relieved today over confessing his dissipation as he does over confessing his part in crime. His wife knew nothing of his doings in the tenderloin until the trial. "I thought his life was an open book," she said, after his confession. She denied that she had any part in bringing about that confession or knowing that there was anything to confess.

"I pleaded guilty of my own will," White told reporters. "Neither my lawyer, my wife nor anyone else advised me to. I had not even made up my own mind until I reached the courtroom. I met my wife there and kissed her, and decided at that moment that it was the main thing to do."

First Confessed to Wife.
"I told her it was all true, and that she must be brave and help me through the crisis. I told her that I prayed all through the night and that as I saw it I must admit my guilt. "It must have been a dreadful shock to her, for till that moment she believed absolutely in my innocence. "A feeling of peace has come to me that I have not had in years. I have no other crime to confess back on, but there are other things that make a man wretched—the things that tell him he is on the downward road. These things I have known, and I have suffered deeply because of them. "The night life of Manhattan did this for White," said C. G. F. Wahl of White's counsel. "He began to spend there beyond his means, and soon found himself in debt. He had to do something, and so he did this. I do not believe that White ever suggested the robbery, as has been intimated in the testimony already heard. I think the suggestion came from someone else, and being in the plight he was, he was too weak to resist."

HUERTA BONDS PAY FOR FLATS

Deal for New York Property Closed by Friend of Former Dictator.

NEW YORK, April 2.—From Mexican dictator to New York landlord—thus is rounding out the career of Victoriano Huerta. Three hundred thousand dollars, par value in Mexican bonds, were tendered yesterday in payment for a block of North Harlem flat houses and it was said that the securities came from the strong box of the late chief of the turbulent republic. They were paid over by John de Kay, a close friend of Huerta, to John S. Heep, who acquired the property recently.

The $200,000 in bonds stands for the buyer's equity in the flats, above mortgages aggregating $1,067,000. The bonds are part of an issue of $20,000,000 issued during the Huerta regime, $16,000,000 being floated in New York by J. P. Morgan and Company, Kuhn, Loeb and Company and other bankers.

BERLIN, via London, April 29.—Houston Stewart Chamberlain, English author, who has lived in Germany and Austria since 1885, has been decorated by Emperor William with the noncombatant's iron cross. Since the war began, letters have been published in German newspapers, with his consent, letters to friends in which Chamberlain blamed the English for beginning the conflict. One of the letters attributed to him closed with the words, "May God protect the glorious German cause. There is no other hope for the future of mankind."

"MENACE" INDICTMENTS STAND

Trial of Publishers of Anti-Catholic Paper Set for June.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 29.—A de murrer to the indictments returned several months ago against the publishers of the Menace, an anti-Catholic weekly newspaper, published at Aurora, Mo., was overruled here yesterday by Federal Judge Van Valkenburgh. The case was then set for trial at Joplin during the June term of court. The individual defendants named in the indictments are: Wilbur E. Phelps, Bruce M. Phelps, Theodore C. Walker and Marvin Brown. The indictments charge that improper matter was sent through the mail, and the articles complained of by the Government are attacks on the Catholic priesthood.

VINCENT ASTOR PURCHASES FOOLPROOF HYDROAEROPLANE

He is at Boston Awaiting Favorable Opportunity to Test New Air Craft.

BOSTON, April 29.—Vincent Astor is here awaiting a favorable opportunity to test a hydroaeroplane he has just purchased. It is of the so-called "foolproof" Burgess-Dunne type.

The main floating section is comprised in the boat hull, which will house the pilot and passengers. There are two compartments, one at the bow for the operator and one amidship. The latter is furnished with two seats, the rear of which contains a duplicate set of controls. The motor will develop from 100 to 110 horsepower, and will furnish ample power to drive the craft at a speed of between 65 and 70 miles an hour.

AUTO CLUB GIVES WARNING OF NEW CITY ORDINANCES

Ban on Muffler Cut-Outs, Unnecessary Noises and High Lights Begins Saturday.

A digest of new automobile ordinances, which go into effect Saturday, has been issued by the Automobile Club of St. Louis, for the guidance of members. This is being sent out in connection with the announcement of the club's annual election, set for next Monday. Edward M. Fleish, president, and Matthew F. Morse, secretary, are on the official ballot for re-election.

Three ordinances are listed, as follows: 1. All automobiles must be equipped with mufflers; the muffler shall not be cut out; and the exhaust shall not in any other manner be expelled from the motor without the sound being deadened at any time when the automobile is on the public places of the city.

2. Unnecessary use of horns or other signal devices is prohibited. No bell, horn, gong, whistle or other signaling device shall be used except as a warning to other users of the street, or as a signal to traffic police officers.

3. Headlights must be so adjusted that at a point a distance of 75 feet in front of the lamp, no part of the reflected beam of light shall be projected more than three feet above the surface of the roadway, when measured on a level roadway.

The members are warned that the ordinances will be strictly enforced, and the suggestion is made that drivers test their lights, so as to conform with the ordinance, by measuring the height of their beams of light when thrown on a wall at a distance of 75 feet, while the car is standing on a level roadway.

"It is also stated that while Mayor Kiel vetoed the automobile smoke ordinance, on the ground that it might work hardship, yet he has promised to recommend such an ordinance later, if the automobile men do not remedy the evil themselves, also, that persons who permit their cars to smoke 'habitually' may be prosecuted under the present smoke ordinance."

MISS BEULAH B. CURENS, daughter of Mrs. Harry Clifford Curens, formerly of St. Louis, and Lewis W. Christophel were married today at noon in the Union Avenue Christian Church, the Rev. B. A. Abbott officiating.

The bride, who resided here until about a year ago, when her mother moved to Terre Haute, Ind., preferred being married in her old home and among her old friends, so the whole family came over for the occasion and have been stopping at the Buckingham, where the bride had breakfast and reception were held after the ceremony.

Miss Berenice Whorey was maid of honor and Misses Ida and Eva Bowles and Edna Lee were bridesmaids. Little Miss Elek Curens was ring bearer. Arthur Christophel was best man, and the ushers were W. Brook Huber and Roy Hass.

After a honeymoon journey to California and its expositions, Mr. Christophel and his bride will return to St. Louis to make their home.

The wedding of Miss Cordelia Drexel Biddle and Angier B. Duke, which took place yesterday in Philadelphia at the Holy Trinity Church, was particularly interesting here, as the bride's mother, who formerly was Miss Cordelia Bradley of Pittsburg, visited St. Louis when a girl and when she was engaged to Mr. Biddle, who joined her here during her visit.

Another point of interest is that Gustavo D. Rosa, whose marriage to Miss Maude Cupples-Scudder was one of the important nuptial events of April 10, was one of the ushers.

From all accounts the wedding must have been a brilliant affair, with presents worth $20,000 and about 120 guests from New York, Washington, Baltimore, Boston and Pittsburg there, to say nothing of the crowds of uninvited guests who thronged the streets with the police for their hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Benoit Carton of 484 Westminster place have gone to Kansas City, Mo., to visit Mrs. Carton's mother, Mrs. Julia Hurt, and to attend the wedding of some friends.

A wedding of note which took place yesterday morning was that of George Valle Bain, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. L. Bain of 3801 Flora boulevard, and Miss Clara Louise Gregg of Los Angeles, Cal., formerly of St. Louis.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Valle of 3811 Flora boulevard, by the Rev. James J. O'Brien of St. Margaret's Church. The bridegroom's father gave the bride in marriage.

Miss Isabel Scott of Cincinnati came over in the morning to be bridesmaid and returned last evening.

Mr. Bain and his bride met here some time ago and have been engaged for about six months.

The bride has been visiting Mrs. H. H. Hopkins of 2845 Athlone avenue, and Mr. Bain and she decided to be married here instead of going to California, where the bride's mother moved several years ago.

Ell Chambers Bennett, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, was his best man. After a brief honeymoon trip, Mr. Bain and his bride will make their home in St. Louis.

Mrs. John A. Blevins of 4447 Washington boulevard will give an auction bridge party May 6 at her residence.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Drummond Jones have returned from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where they have been spending their honeymoon and are stopping with Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. August A. Busch, at Grant's farm.

Miss Edith Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Jones of 5367 Vernon avenue, is visiting friends in Nashville, Tenn. She will return in a fortnight.

Miss Dove E. Stewart of 1227 Amherst place has cards out for an at home May 8 at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. W. C. Ryan of Abilene, Tex., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morris of 2445 Sheridan avenue. She will remain several weeks.

Pigeon Is Mother to Chicks. REDONDO BEACH, Cal., April 29.—Miss Mame McElligott, breeder of fancy pigeons, was surprised to find that a pet pigeon was mothering seven wee chickens hatched from bantam eggs.

The pigeon stole a march on her mistress several weeks ago, and a diligent search failed to find her nest. Finally she proudly brought forth her young brood from a discarded oven located in the granary.

WOMAN FILES SUIT TO MAKE HUSBAND HAVE LIFE INSURED

New York Demands He Take Out $65,000 Policy.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Mrs. Isabelle Brulatur has asked Justice Delahanty to compel her husband, Jules Brulatur, millionaire film importer, to take out $65,000 worth of life insurance.

Less than a year ago Mrs. Brulatur started a separation suit in the Supreme Court, and an agreement was drafted under the terms of which Mrs. Brulatur was to receive $20,000 a year from her husband.

A hitch in negotiations occurred when Mrs. Brulatur asked for a larger allowance, and finally, she alleges, her husband agreed to take out $65,000 worth of life insurance, making his wife and children the beneficiaries. When the time came to take out the policy Mrs. Brulatur found her husband unwilling, she says.

"Choke-'em" Buck Herzog Has Strangle Hold on 2d Place

He's Here to Throttle Hug's Cards

The Cincinnati Wizard Is Busily Engaged in His Annual Spring Stunt of Giving the National League a Scare—It Looks Like Second Division, Later On.

By W. J. O'Connor.

CHARLES LINCOLN HERZOG, who raised more canteloupes and what Sherman said was (and still is for that matter) than any other manager in the National League, or any other league even unto Jules Verne's big colony under the sea, invaded St. Louis this beautiful morning with a detachment of dismounted Uhlans, prepared to choke all comers. He will be here for four days.

Herzog's team as a whole is a monument in refutation of the generally accepted theory that baseball is particularly suited to the sons of Erin. Just to pick names at random, we might mention some of Herzog's pets, to-wit: Von Kolnitz, Mollwitz, Wagner, Groh, Olson, Schneider, Twombly, etc., etc. If that doesn't listen like an iron cross brigade, what does? It might pass for a convention of butchers or brewmasters, too, but nevertheless this coterie of free-born American voters is in second place, which is their favorite berth in the spring. Last year the Reds were in second place as late as June 28. On Oct. 4 they were last, barely in the league, finishing the other side of the Rhine.

Herzog a Wizard, Too.

But be that as it may, Charles Lincoln Herzog is as much of a Miracle Man as Stallings. He's miraculous inasmuch as he has held his job in Cincinnati for two years, which is a record that may stand in baseball even unto the end of time. He accomplished this feat in the face of the fact that he tore down what gave promise of being a good team last season, and he has not yet been replaced. For one reason or another, Armando Marsans, Herbert Matherly, Hobbs, Dave Davenport, Chief Johnson, Johnny Bates and others.

Oh, yes, friends, Herzog is an original cuss. He does such unusual things, such as leading his team to the moon, which is a record that may stand in baseball even unto the end of time. He has started in this season by taking four straight games from the Britton Brigade.

Oh, yes, friends, Herzog is an original cuss. He does such unusual things, such as leading his team to the moon, which is a record that may stand in baseball even unto the end of time. He has started in this season by taking four straight games from the Britton Brigade.

Herbert replaced Davenport. Bridwell threw out Oakes at first. Berghammer scored and Koney stopping at second. Lewis doubling to left. Vaughn stole second. Kelly singled to center. Lewis stopped at third. Berry was out. Johnson to Borton. FOUR RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING.
TERRIERS—Miller fouled to Jones. Chapman singled past short. Deal sin Jones' fumble. Chapman stopping at second. Jones hit safely to third and went to Jones. Vaughn was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

PITTSBURG—Dickson was called out on strikes. Johnson and Borton doubled. Jones hit safely to third and went to second on Deal's wild throw past short. Berghammer scored and Mowrey scoring. Berghammer threw out Herbert. ONE RUN.

EIGHTH INNING.
TERRIERS—Tobin flied to Jones. Bridwell was out. Lewis to Koney. Drake fanned. NO RUNS.

PITTSBURG—Lewis flied to Chapman. Kelly fouled to Deal, who suffered a split hand, and Vaughn doubling to left. Vaughn was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

NINTH INNING.
TERRIERS—Borton flied to left. Berghammer threw out Miller at first. Borton holding second. Chapman flied to Jones. Vaughn was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

DEAL FOR PERRITT NOT CONFIRMED BY EASTERN OWNERS

Report Said Wheat Was to Join Giants in Exchange for Former Card Pitcher.

NEW YORK, April 28.—If Zach Wheat, the Brooklyn slugger, is coming to the Giants in exchange for Pitcher Perritt and Outfielders Murray and Robertson, nobody in authority seems to know anything about it.

President Ebbets of the Dodgers last night stamped it as one of "those rainy day dreams."

Harry Hempstead, chief owner of the Giants, and John E. Foster, secretary of the New York club, say somebody is romancing.

"If anything like that was in the air I'd know about it," said Mr. Foster. "From Philadelphia comes the denial of Manager Robinson, who says he never would sanction such a trade, as it would give the Giants all the best of it."

HEINE ZIM ON SECOND
Roger Bresnahan is having his troubles with the Cub infield, and he is beginning to make changes in line of getting a better combination around second base. He now has Heinie Zim on the middle base, with Art Huggins on third. Zim is a new acquisition from the New York club, say somebody is romancing.

SPORT SALAD BY L.C. DAVIS

THE PASSING SHOW.

MY friends, it pains me to report. The Pittsburgh Pirates licked us. They had to catch an early train. And that's the way they tricked us. Our boys had just begun to play. And stood a chance of winning. The game was stopped. But we had hoped. Had there been one more inning.

CHICAGO-ST. LOUIS DUEL EXPECTED IN M. A. MARATHON

Sidney Hatch Will Again Be the Main Reliance of the Visiting Men.

It will be a race between St. Louis and Chicago marathoners in the long grind of the Missouri Athletic Association over the course from Gumbo, Mo., Saturday. This fact is assured with the announcement from Tom Watts Jr., chairman of the Athletic Committee of the M. A. A., that Edward Fabre, the Canadian crack, had turned down the offer to come here to the fun Saturday.

The Canadian star, who only a week ago won the championship 25-mile race of the Boston A. A., sent word to the local officials that he thought it unwise to make the long trip from Montreal, fearing he would not be able to do his best.

So the coming annual long-distance grind of the M. A. A. probably will be not in shape to run on account of the fact that the Canadian star, who only a week ago won the championship 25-mile race of the Boston A. A., sent word to the local officials that he thought it unwise to make the long trip from Montreal, fearing he would not be able to do his best.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCordell.

Mrs. Jarr Tries in Vain to Keep Tabs on a Curly and Mysterious Stranger.

MRS. JARR came in from shopping in a brown study. Mr. Jarr, who had got home ahead of her, kissed her as she came in, but Mrs. Jarr's mind was on some matter most important. Her thoughts were far away.

"A penny for your thoughts, my dear," remarked the best of husbands. At another time Mrs. Jarr might have said that this amount was all which would be offered her when she was thinking of the household bills she had to meet. But now she only murmured: "I'm sure it's the same party!"

"It must have been a surprise party, the way you cogitate over it," remarked Mr. Jarr. "How large was the party, and was it a pleasant one?"

"Do you think I was interested in his height or weight?" asked Mrs. Jarr, roused up. "And as for his being pleasant, I'm not the sort to make myself familiar with that class of people—or any class of people, for that matter—being of a different temperament from some others I know, who become 'fall fellows, well met!' with the most dreadful sorts of persons!"

This was a verbal shaft aimed at Mr. Jarr's unfettered and oftentimes embarrassing democracy. For, as all good wives know, even the best of husbands, otherwise, will be on the most dreadful terms of intimacy with men they meet in saloons and in politics, or both. "Who was it? What was it?" asked Mr. Jarr feebly; his little quip connoting a gathering of persons and party—the colloquial for an individual—having fallen flat.

"It was the curly-haired, slim young man with the cast in his eye," said Mrs. Jarr. "It couldn't have been at the Highlands, because the summer we were at the Highlands was the summer before Willie had his adenoids removed, and I remember distinctly he was so peevish and feverish I was afraid he was getting scarlet fever, and never went out much or saw a soul except the people at the hotel."

"Otherwise it was a very pleasant summer, only—except when you came down from Saturday till Monday, you were always on a late train and used a fuss so because there was only a cold supper for you, and I had to go to the waitress to introduce her."

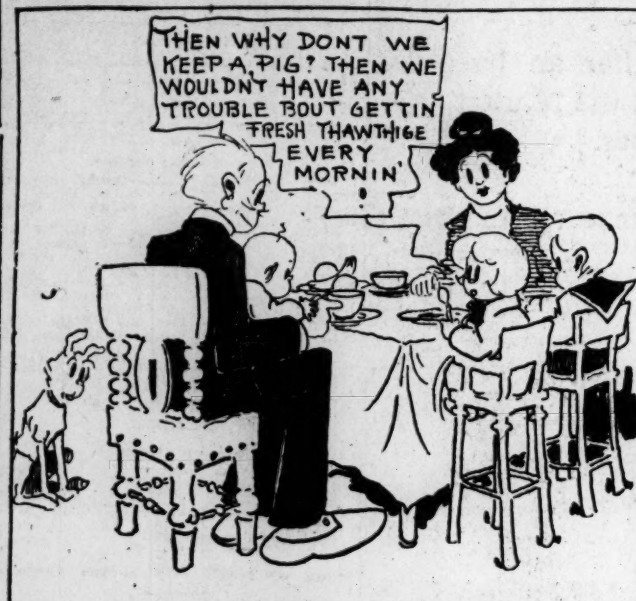

"Some wealthy friends in the winter, to get her to put that aside for you. Don't you remember the stout man who always came on the late train with you the summer we were at Highlands? The man who was head of the Warm Heart Brotherhood and wrote articles in the papers on 'Love Ruling All'?"

And who used to scowl at everybody and everything—and no wonder, at that hotel! And he used to snap his wife's head off when she asked him a civil question, and he hated children and wouldn't speak to any of the men."

"I think I remember that dear fellow—the man who wrote the articles beginning, 'Listen, Comrades! George Greatheart is speaking to you!' But he didn't curly hair and a cast in his eye. Is wife used to cast things in his eye, but nothing in his eye."

"How you talk!" exclaimed Mrs. Jarr. "It was the summer when auction bridge was all the rage. And that was from Florida who always asked when a person dared to ask."

What are trumps? or "Is it my play?" used to drive me wild."

"Was he the mysterious person with the crimped locks and the impediment in his eye, who crossed your path today?" asked Mr. Jarr sadly.

"I'm speaking of where we met the slim young man with the cast in his hair and curly eyes—you get me all mixed up!" said Mrs. Jarr plaintively. "I know it wasn't at Highlands. But his face was familiar."

"What about him? Out with it!" "It was a young man who rang the bell at the Strivers' when I was there and said he was introducing a set of the classics, and I know I've seen him before."

"Why, yes, I remember now! He was here trying to sell me the same books the other day!"

"Ah, you see!" said Mr. Jarr. "It's a small world after all!"

The Danger of It.
MRS. HOKUS: My husband says I have made another man of him.

Mrs. Pokus: You'd better look out, or the first thing you know he'll be looking around for another man's wife.—Judge.

Don't Ever Let Anyone Tell You This as a New One
P O P, money talks, don't it?" "Tep."

"What does it say?" "Good-by!"

Averse to Slang.

JUST to show how much averse to slang he was, a small boy in school explained to the teacher one day that he had been walking with a friend, but neglected to take off his hat when they met a lady both knew. His friend had nudged him and whispered:

"Take off your lid, you slimp."

"What he should have said," explained the boy, "was: 'Remove your hat, you nut.'"

The general sentiment is summed up in the words of the small boy, who ventured this:

"Anyway, it's only roughnecks who use slang nowadays."

Time waits for none, but it seems to do so for those who wait.

Rather a Fool Question.

THE inquisitive stranger saw a heron start away from a house at the head of a funeral procession.

"Who's dead?" he inquired of the corner storekeeper, who was standing near his door, gazing at the conveyance.

"Chon Schmidt," "John Smith?" exclaimed the cub. "You don't mean to say John Smith is dead?"

"Vell, py himmel," said the grocer, "vot you disk dey doing mit him—practicing?"

Teaching Jimmie.

NOW, said Mr. Jones, energetically, "I think it's high time, Jimmie, that you began to learn something, and I am going to teach you."

We will begin by counting the people in our family. "Teth, thir," said Jimmie. "Now, mother is one, and I am one, so that makes two, doesn't it?"

"Teth, thir," said Jimmie. "And now, grandma is one more, and she makes how many?" Jimmie looked interested, but doubtful. "Three, isn't it?" prompted father. "Teth, thir," said Jimmie. "And now, there's grandpa. He makes—how many? Four, isn't it?"

"Teth, thir," said Jimmie. "And then there's Aunt Ellen. She makes—how many? Five, isn't it?"

"Teth, thir," said Jimmie. "And then, there's Uncle Stephen. He makes—But, daddy, exclaimed Jimmie, "do they all make hominy?"

Why Is It?
WHY is it that the man who marries an angel in disguise frequently finds it is a mighty easy thing to remove the disguise.

To Make a Showing.
A CERTAIN poor woman had received some new underclothes from one who had helped the family. The woman's husband thanked the donor's husband and a whole drama of humble ambitions might be built around his words.

"Mary's mighty glad to have those clothes," he said. "She says now she'll have something to hang out on the line on Mondays."

His Defect.
I KNOW he isn't handsome, Caroline," urged the mother; "but he is a worthy man, and I wish you could look upon his suit with a little more favor, for your father's sake and mine."

Joshua Thornbuckle once saved your father from bankruptcy. And a friend in need is a friend indeed.

"Yes, mamma," answered Miss Caroline; "but he isn't in-kneed. He's bow-legged."

Two of a Kind.
WHAT a wonderful painter Rubens was!" remarked Mr. Gibbs at the art gallery.

"Yes," assented Mrs. Gibbs. "It is said of him that he could change a laughing face into a sad one by a single stroke."

"Why," spoke up Willie, in disgust, "my schoolmaster can do that."
